Rolls too easily

CALABASAS, Calif. (UPI) — A roll-away safe is easier to move about, but that has its disadvantages, as Charles Gates discovered. "Thieves broke into Gates' home and rolled away his rollaway safe, containing $45,000 worth of antique jewelry and old coins. Los Angeles County Sheriff's deputies reported.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Thomas O'Neill said today after a breakfast meeting with Vice President Walter Mondale that Democrats will offer three compromise amendments to the controversial voter registration bill.

O'Neill said the amendments, supported by the White House and party leaders in Congress, will strengthen the bill. The voter measure as proposed by President Carter would provide for election day registration at the polls. It has come under heavy criticism from Republicans, who charge that it could lead to wholesale voter fraud.

O'Neill said reporters after meeting with Mondale, whom Carter has assigned to guide the measure through Congress, that three amendments would be offered by Democrats to the bill to:

- Make state participation in the program voluntary for the 1978 elections, but mandatory after that;
- Require some form of positive identification of registrants, such as a driver's license;
- Provide satellite buildings at polling centers so registration does not interfere with routine at the polls, which are often overcrowded with voters.

Some Republicans, such as House GOP leader John Rhodes, said they could support the bill if added safeguards against fraud, such as the driver's license with a photo attached, were provided and if the program was made voluntary for states.

Asked if Mondale brought the amendments to the meeting, O'Neill only said, "they are the concerted ideas of many voices which believe the bill should be strengthened."

"I am encouraged by the support of the leadership," said Mondale after the meeting.

"This bill is designed to allow the working people who find it difficult to participate in the election process to do so," said Mondale. He did not comment on the amendments discussed by O'Neill.

O'Neill has put the controversial measure on his priority list of legislation to be considered this year and said earlier he hoped to bring it to the House floor late this month.

JFK case witness 'found'

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (UPI) — Dutch journalist Willem Oltmans said today he has found a new witness ready to identify the person who ordered the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Oltmans told a news conference, "I'm ready only to make him known to President Carter himself" and would refuse to testify again before the U.S. House Select Committee on Assassinations, which he called "highly shaky, leaky, ridiculous."

He said he had sent a message to that effect to Carter which the president would be given Wednesday.

"This key witness is on the highest level of the U.S. establishment," Oltmans said. "He is not at the moment in the United States. He is in a position to identify who ordered the killing of John F. Kennedy. He can reveal the entire matter from A to Z."

Oltmans said he would fly to Washington on Sunday and hold a news conference there next Tuesday. If Carter refuses to see him, Oltmans said, he had "other ways" of revealing his witness. He would not elaborate.

"Oltmans, who has written a book titled, 'A Report on the Kennedy Assassination,' talked to the House assassination committee three times earlier this year.

According to committee sources, he said a man called George de Mohrenschildt told him he served as a go-between for Texas oilman and Lee Harvey Oswald. The committee staff tried to contact de Mohrenschildt but he committed suicide first.

"I will not again give any names to the House assassination committee," Oltmans said. "I don't trust them. I don't think they know how to handle the job."

Oltmans said he had received proof that Texas oilman Lamar Hunt had nothing to do with the assassination and said information given him by de Mohrenschildt concerning Hunt "was wrong."

Fifth Ray pal caught

PETROS, Tenn. (UPI) — Douglas Shelton, the last of the five escapees who broke out of Brushy Mountain State Prison with James Earl Ray, was recaptured today, authorities disclosed.

Officials said Shelton was found in the same general area where Ray was found, about eight miles northwest of the prison.

Shelton was serving a 99-year sentence for murder, assault and grand larceny.

Meanwhile, Jack Kershaw, attorney for James Earl Ray, said today he will file a motion for a new trial within 60 days for his client, recaptured early Monday after escaping for 34 hours in the rugged Cumberland Mountains.

Kershaw said he has an excellent picture of "Raoul" but is "not going to release it immediately. Raoul is the man Ray claims gave him instructions to buy the gun that killed civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Memphis April 4, 1968.

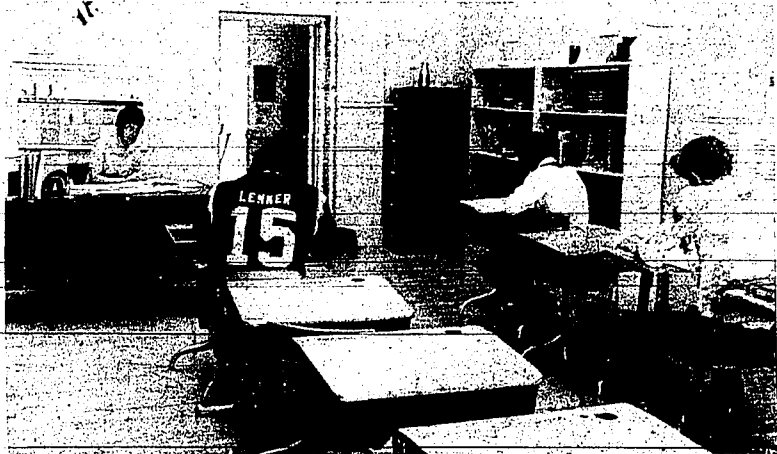

Kershaw said he has had it about two weeks. "I will recommend a key element that the picture be released soon but not before I file for a petition for a new trial."

Police stoned

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Striking black schoolchildren stoned police riot vehicles, buses and private cars today, damaging a number of them in the worst outbreak of "violence" this month in segregated Soweto township, police said.

The situation in the huge black township of some 1.2 million persons has become increasingly tense in the past few days leading up to the June 16 first anniversary of last year's nationwide bloody rioting which in six months claimed 618 lives.

A police spokesman said riot police were called out to Soweto's Orlando high school when an estimated 50 youths began throwing stones at passing vehicles over the school wall.

WILL TERRY students at Silver Spring, Md., have companions seated at these empty classroom desks. It's entirely possible they will be filled, if construction of a coal-fired power plant brings an influx of construction workers and their families to the Magic Valley.

Empty now, but . . .

Building coal-fired plant could bring 1,200 pupils

Editor's note: Today the third of four articles about the impact on Magic Valley if a coal-fired electrical generating plant is built appears in the Times-News. Today's story outlines the problems Gooding and Lincoln county schools would have accommodating an expected flood of new students who probably would come to the rural communities in the two counties if a coal-fired plant were built.

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

MAGIC VALLEY — Construction of a coal-fired electrical generating plant in Magic Valley could bring an additional 1,200 students into area schools, based on school enrollment data from Wyoming.

Three sites in Magic Valley, one in southern Gooding County and two in Lincoln County, are considered ideal spots by Idaho Power Co. for construction of a 500 megawatt coal-fired generating plant.

Such a plant probably would employ 700 construction workers—many of whom would come from out of state and bring their families.

At least this was the pattern which developed in Wyoming earlier this decade during construction of the Jim Bridger coal-fired electrical generating plant.

At the height of construction of the Jim Bridger coal-fired generating plant, 2,000 workers were employed on the project. Many of these men and women had families and young children.

Schools in Wyoming were flooded with students and classrooms overcrowded while administrators frantically tried to find the money and the time to build additional classroom space.

If a coal-fired electrical generating plant is built in Magic Valley some area schools would face a difficult situation trying to find space for dozens of new students.

But other school districts, primarily in Lincoln and Minidoka counties probably could handle a load of extra pupils.

Lincoln County's three school districts, in Shoshone, Richfield and Dietrich, all have experienced a decrease in population in recent years. Superintendent in all three towns say they would welcome an increase in student enrollment—from 100 to 150 in each district.

But Gooding County has had a more stable population and at least two school districts, Wendell and Gooding, are at capacity or near capacity now. Hagerman is "comfortable" with its pupil load.

Only Bliss could absorb nearly 100 new students with present facilities.

Wendell Supt. Lawrence LaRue is trying to obtain two or three portable classroom units for use in the elementary grades this fall. Construction plans are still in the talking stage.

According to statistics compiled by Dennis L. Watt, planner for Sweetwater County, Wyo., where the Jim Bridger coal-fired 2,000 megawatt plant is nearing completion, construction workers bring an average of 1.6 children apiece to such a project.

This figure takes into account many workers tend to be either single men, or in some instances leave their family behind if housing is not available.

The impact on any single Magic Valley school district probably would be diluted because workers would spread to adjoining towns.

Mani Hareidson, former Twin Falls division manager for Idaho Power, said judging from past experience with other power plants the firm built, construction workers tend to "spread out" to nearby communities.

While this would tend to lessen the impact on any one school district, it also makes advance planning more difficult.

For school officials the $64 question is trying to figure out how many children will be added to any one district before they arrive.

Advise to any community facing the impact of a power plant from Robert Wallendorf, Rock Springs, Wyo., associate superintendent of schools, is to "force public officials and industry representatives into advance planning."

"Get your county commissioners, mayor and school board to go to the industry and outline your needs," Wallendorf said.

Since industry is responsible for the disruption of community life it should participate in helping to alleviate some of the impact problems, the educator said.

Because the Rock Springs Junior High School already was full when the boom hit there about five years ago, Wallendorf said a "real pinch" developed in the Wyoming schools.

First four split sessions were tried, with students starting classes at staggered times. This was the "very worst," Wallendorf said.

Then, Rock Springs settled on half day sessions.

Now the district considered about the wealthiest in Wyoming—not only has a new high school but a second junior high and two new elementary schools.

Teacher contract talks break off

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls School Board declared this morning it will no longer negotiate with teachers.

Unless other means are found to end the apparent impasse, both the board and the Twin Falls Education Association (TFEA) could end up in mediation.

Mediation in the event of an impasse is called for under the procedural agreement signed by both parties last year.

The break in negotiations came after a meeting Monday night. A spokesman for the TFEA said board negotiators "walked out on us. They didn't give us a chance to set another meeting."

This morning the board issued a press release detailing its position on items under negotiation and concluding: "No agreement has been reached and there appears to be no prospect of an agreement on these items. Further negotiations would be futile. Accordingly, the trustees have determined negotiations should cease."

Acting School Supt. Carl Snow said impasse might be avoided if the TFEA would accept the board's previous position on the items under negotiation.

The door's still open, however, for acceptance or ratification of the items which have already been negotiated, Snow said. He said the school district will go ahead with Thursday's override tax levy which will add $400 to teachers' base pay if it passes, as well as provide other funds for district use.

Plant application in works

BOISE (UPI) — The president of Idaho Power Co. says the firm will seek permission from the Idaho Public Utilities Commission later this month to build a 500-megawatt coal-fired power plant in southern Idaho.

But James Bruce said Monday no specific site will be proposed, although the company will suggest two or three sites "acceptable to the PUC."

The 1977 Idaho Legislature directed the commission to set "minimum" environmental criteria on potential sites for energy-generating facilities and to rank the sites in at least five priority groupings. The PUC released 21 site rankings two weeks ago.

Bruce mentioned the Shoshone and American Falls areas as well as an area near Bliss in Gooding County as possible sites Idaho Power might suggest. The PUC has rated Shoshone and American Falls in its highest category, but ranked the Bliss area lower because the site would be visible from scenic areas.

The power official said he had some reservations about the Shoshone and American Falls sites "because these areas rest atop huge lava deposits and might not be best sites." He said there could be some geological problems. He was noncommittal on the Bliss site.

Bruce said once the utility files the application, it will take at least a year for site suitability studies. He said if the PUC ultimately approves the site, it would take another four to five years to build the plant and put it on the line.

Last year, the PUC rejected Idaho Power's proposal for a 500-megawatt coal-fired plant at Orchard southeast of Boise. The proposal was rejected after environmentalists and former Gov. Cecil D. Andrus testified against the location.

In denying the application, however, the PUC said there was sufficient evidence to indicate a coal-fired power plant would be needed by the early 1980s.

Ray J. 'Rocky' Holmes

TWIN FALLS — Ray J. "Rocky" Holmes, 76, Twin Falls, businessmagnate, died Monday afternoon at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital after a long illness.

Born June 1, 1901, at Oskaloosa, Iowa, he moved to Pocatello, Ore., as a child, and then came to Twin Falls in 1919.

He established the Holmes Oil Co., which he was operating at the time of his death.

Mr. Holmes spent most of the past 30 years serving with the Idaho Fish and Game Commission. He was appointed by then Gov. Le B. Jordan to help reorganize the commission and served as a member from the fourth district until 1971, when then Gov. Cecil D. Andrus appointed him to the Idaho Outfitters and Guides Board.

Mr. Holmes was also involved as a member of the Four State Highway Planning Board which set up the US 93 route from Mexico to Canada.

In Twin Falls, he was a member and past president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce; a past president and lieutenant governor of the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club; was a member of the Salvation Army band; served on the Twin Falls Planning and Zoning Board; was a member of the Twin Falls Masonic Lodge; the Knights Templar and El Korah Shrine; and was a member of the Boise Pouchers Club. Mr. Holmes was a member of the First Christian Church.

He was married to Gladys Wilson in Whitman County, Washington, in 1928.

Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Sheryl Yansky, Twin Falls, and Charlene von Gortler, Tucson, Ariz.; a brother, A.C. Holmes, and two sisters, Nellie Erickson and Mattie Davis, all Pocatello. There are five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Friday at Reynolds Funeral Chapel with Rev. Dorral Campbell of the First Christian Church officiating. Masonic graveside services will be at Sunset Memorial Park under direction of the Twin Falls Lodge.

The family suggests memorials to the Salvation Army.

Friends may call at the chapel Thursday and until time of services Friday.

BUHL — Hazel Reeves, 83, died in a Twin Falls nursing home Monday after an illness.

She was born Aug. 9, 1893. She married Charles Reeves on Nov. 25, 1914, in Pasco, Wash. Mr. Reeves died in 1958.

Mrs. Reeves came to Buhl in 1944.

She was a member of the LDS Church.

Graveside services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday by Blaise Robert Easton in the Buhl West End Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Former Chapel today from 3 p.m. until 8 p.m. and prior to services Wednesday.

Hildegard Schoepp

RUPERT — Hildegard Schoepp, 49, Rupert, died Sunday evening at Minidoka Memorial Hospital of a long illness.

Born Aug. 4, 1927, in West Germany, she married Joseph Schoepp Oct. 13, 1945, in West Germany. She attended school there.

The couple moved to the United States in 1952, settling in Minidoka County. In January, 1975, they moved to Rupert.

Survivors include her husband and two sons, Herbert and Walter Schoepp, all Rupert; her mother, Louise Petersen, and one sister, Mrs. Urgel Schultz, both West Germany, and two grand-children.

Services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Paul First Baptist Church with Pastor Henry W. Ruppert officiating. Burial will be in the Ruppert Cemetery.

Friends may call at Hansen Mortuary this afternoon and evening and at the church one hour prior to services Wednesday.

Kins: Mrs. Gloria Rorison, Canada, and Mrs. Bonita Cecil, Gardenville. Next two brothers, Richard Helsey, Jerome, and Gary Brightwell, King Hill, and a stepbrother, Roland Helsey, Twin Falls.

A funeral service will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Twin Falls Funeral Chapel with burial in the Twin Falls Cemetery.

Friends may call at the chapel this evening and until service time Wednesday.

One portable grade school unit still is in use, but officials expect to replace it soon, along with completion of a new auditorium.

Having survived the impact when the Rock Springs' school enrollment climbed from 2,965 in 1970 to a peak of 4,756 in October, 1972, Wallendorf, a philosophical about the original overcrowding.

"The overall effect is good," he said. "You get some kids of construction workers who don't give a damn, but when it comes to the permanent employees you'll get some good community-minded people."

To financially hard-pressed Idaho school officials, the Rock Springs district, with enrollment leveled at 4,580 could well be a source of envy.

The Rock Springs district no longer participates in the state foundation—equalization of state funds program because of the increase in local tax money derived from the Bridger plant and other industrial operations there.

There is "no trouble with teachers over negotiations," Wallendorf said, for good reason.

The starting salary in Rock Springs is $10,300, says a teacher with 11 years' experience, a master's degree plus 30 hours draws $20,580, more than most superintendents in Magic Valley districts.

Another facet to the school financial problem is whether the proposed plant will be in the district in which most of the children will attend school.

Sweetwater County, Wyo., has only two school districts, Rock Springs and Green River, and while there was considerable gerrymandering of district boundaries, according to the county planner, he said the majority of new students do attend Rock Springs schools, the district deriving the tax benefit.

This probably would not be the case in Magic Valley, especially if the site under consideration north of Bliss is chosen. That community, smallest in Gooding County, has only a 130 school student body, housed in one building.

The Bliss school could handle at least 60 pupils in junior high and high school and "probably 30 additional elementary students if they happened to hit in the right place," according to Bliss Suplt. Burton Lenker, but it is doubtful that even the majority of construction workers would live in Bliss.

While the Bliss school district would receive the increased revenue derived from the school district, judging from past experience, the majority of the new students probably would spill over into Gooding, Hagerman and Wendell school districts.

If the "Tampa-style" were selected, Gooding likely would get the people while Lincoln County would receive the tax money.

Wendell, 16 miles from Bliss, already is over capacity in its grade school, which are group composed the largest percentage of construction workers' children.

Gooding's school system is "just about at capacity," according to Suplt. Gene Robinson. Kindergarten classes are held outside the school in former Tyler Hall, at the old state Tuberculosis Hospital at the edge of town.

If the Sid's Crossing site, 15 miles east of Dietrich were selected, it is likely that the plant would be located within the Shoshone School District, according to Ed Savarin, Lincoln County assessor.

But if the location is to the east of the section line at Sid's Crossing, the nearest geographical designation given by power company officials, it would be within the Minidoka County School District.

Minidoka school officials said 33 sections of land in eastern Lincoln County were annexed into the Minidoka County district in 1974, because the few residents in that isolated area do most of their shopping and business in Paul or Rupert.

Since the improvement of State Highway 24 in recent years more of the people in that part of Lincoln County tend to travel eastward to Rupert, officials said.

The countywide Minidoka school district has lost students in recent years and probably could handle 100 additional pupils with no problems, school officials said. The Paul elementary school is the closest to the proposed site.

If worse followed previous patterns, the influx of students no doubt would be divided not only between the three Lincoln County school districts, but into Minidoka's system, while the Shoshone District would realize the added tax revenue.

Kenneth Crothers, Shoshone superintendent, said the population in his district has decreased by 150 since he came to the community in 1966, so that number easily could be absorbed with no additional facilities.

Dietrich, the smallest district, but nearest to the Sid's Crossing site, could handle "at least 100 or more students with no problem," according to Suplt. Wayne Perron.

Additional students would allow Dietrich to enlarge its curriculum, he said, but financing would be increased only through the additional $639 per pupil of state funding districts receive, computed according to a complicated formula which includes a sparsity factor.

But, the other Lincoln County community, likewise, has lost students in recent years, and would welcome additional pupils to boost its average daily attendance (ADA) figure, which is the basis for state funding.

MEET ONE OF OUR BEST

FRED T. LEWIS
934 Sunrise Blvd.
Twin Falls

Once a year we at Aid Association for Lutherans take a moment to recognize some of our best people. You've just met one of them.

Fred was the leading representative in 1976 in the Thomas-Fabrics Agency, Idaho Falls. We're proud of him. And we want to tell you about it.

What's it take to be one of the best at AAL? Well, it takes training and experience so Lutheran families get the best coverage possible. It takes genuine interest in the fraternal and benevolent activities of AAL local branches. And it takes a special kind of dedication to AAL's concern for others.

We think that describes Fred pretty well.

'Right to Work' panel assailed

BOISE (UPI) — The National Right to Work Committee is "nothing more than a business-front group," a spokesman for the national AFL-CIO told its Idaho membership in Boise Monday.

Allen Zuck, Washington D.C., assistant public relations director of the union, said the $100,000 the Idaho Right to Work Committee spent in its unsuccessful efforts to pass "a right to free load bill" this year in the Idaho Legislature "is just the tip of the iceberg."

"Nobody knows how much they raised — not even Pete Cenarriga," Zuck said, because the Idaho figures do not include the "mailings and full page ads" released throughout the country "to pressure Idaho."

Reed Larson, president of the National Right to Work Committee, told state supporters in Boise last week the committee plans to spend $30,000 in the 1978 elections describing the figure as a "tentative" one that could go higher.

A right-to-work bill passed both Houses of the 1977 Idaho Legislature but died in a joint conference committee. Such a law would make union membership completely voluntary and would outlaw the "union shop" contract in Idaho.

Zuck said the National Right to Work Committee plans to raise $5 million this year.

Asked if the state organization will match the committee's pledged $30,000 for political campaigns next year, Zuck said that decision would be made by the state organization.

"Unlike the National Right to Work Committee we don't come in and make decisions at the state level," he said.

Referring to the 1978 state political elections, he said, "It's going to be the dollar election."

"We could big business spend millions of dollars on right to work if it would not result in millions of dollars of profit to them?" he asked.

The union spokesman said, "We can't compete with their dollars but we can out-organize them," adding, "It's votes — not money — that counts."

Calling Idaho Republican Congressmen Steve Symms and George Hansen, "the Aubrey Hoffmans of the right wing," Zuck accused the U.S. Representatives of "seeking to capture the Republican Party through a multi-million dollar operation."

He referred to a "network" of politically "right wing" committees which are "fronts" that "depend on the political likes of Steve Symms and 'Pamphander' Hansen to provide legitimacy to these organizations."

"If they're so concerned about workers' rights they would stop trying to abolish OSHA and help us make it better," Zuck said. "Think how long Idaho's treasured environment would last if Hansen and Symms could apply the same stand to it they do to OSHA."

Saying there is "big profit in conservatism today," Zuck spoke of "mystery money" that "no one knows who it comes from or where it comes from and the last thing we know is who it goes to."

He referred to the "hustler," the person who owns a mailing list and the computer operator who are a "windfall" for promoters "so that business can keep its hands clean and get the job done."

"When they can no longer buy power then what in the hell are they left with?" Zuck said.

Back in old cell

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI) — Murder suspect Theodore Bundy, facing additional charges resulting from his escape, was back in his cell today in the basement of the Pitkin County Courthouse one week after he jumped out an upstairs window and ran off into the Colorado mountains.

Bundy, handcuffed and with his feet shackled, stood before District Judge George Lohr and was advised of his rights Monday.

Lohr said Bundy would be charged with escape, burglary and theft at an arraignment Thursday morning. Bundy is already charged with first-degree murder in the 1975 murder of a nurse. Lohr told Bundy he could serve up to 90 years in prison and be fined $30,000 if he is convicted on all the escape-related charges.

Bundy was captured early Monday morning after eluding searchers for six days in the mountains southwest of Aspen. He was arrested by sheriff's deputies who stopped a stolen car Bundy was driving. The officers said the car was weaving as if the driver was intoxicated.

The deputies said Bundy was "groggy and confused."

Pocatello contract talks go on

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) —

Contract negotiations between officials of Bucyrus-Erie and the Boliden Union No. 520 will continue through June when the current contract expires, a union spokesman said Monday.

Juan Palacios, speaking for the union, declined comment when asked if he anticipated problems during the negotiations.

Union members rejected a company proposal by a substantial margin earlier this year.

About 65 workers, most of them union members, were laid off May 23 due to what a company spokesman called an energy-related problem.

Hints

EASY SHAPES

Loose, easy-to-wear shapes are your best bet for coolness on a hot day, so avoid clothes that buckle elaborately or adhere to the skin.

BACK BENEFIT

To help treat acne on the back, try using a longhanded, firm brush-and-a-medicated soap.

NAIL KNACK

Sandals bring feet out in the open, so don't forget to trim nails and, if you like, polish them for the public.

Thousand board

BOISE (UPI) — A total of 1,000 persons boarded Amtrak trains in the first week the trains were in operation through southern Idaho, according to Art Lloyd of the San Francisco Amtrak office.

He said the boardings were made at one of the five Idaho stops — Pocatello, Shoshone, Mountain Home, Boise and Nampa. Lloyd said there was no way to determine how many persons traveled into Idaho from other states since the trains went into operation on June 7.

Body recovered

BOISE (UPI) — The body of Brett Watson, 21, Boise, has been recovered from Lucky Peak reservoir near Boise.

It was found Monday, a week after Watson drowned while swimming with two friends.

Ada County Deputy Coroner Mike Johnson said the body floated up just where it first disappeared. He said the body was dragged to shore by a fisherman who threw a rope around the body.

Watson was swimming a few yards off shore the evening of June 6 when he began to suffer from "leg cramps." His two companions tried to hold him afloat but Watson struggled loose and disappeared beneath the water.

Man enters plea of innocent

BLACKFOOT, Idaho (UPI) —

Fernando L. Quizada, 42, pleaded innocent Monday in district court to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder.

The defendant's attorney entered the plea contending "mental disease or defect" on Quizada's part. Judge Arnold T. Beebe ordered a psychiatric evaluation for him at State Hospital South.

Quizada is being held under $50,000 bond in Bingham County Jail.

He is accused of shooting at Bingham County Sheriff's Deputy B.R. Reeves near Pingree the night of May 27 while the officer tried to arrest his companion, Noe Zamora. Zamora is charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill Come Gutierrez. A preliminary hearing is set Wednesday morning.

Gutierrez is recuperating at Bingham Memorial Hospital from a bullet wound.

Brock, GOP need a complete loaf

Bill Brock, National Chairman of the Republican Party, can breathe easier June 25.

For the first time in months Brock will tour a state where the Republicans outnumber the Democrats.

Brock comes to Twin Falls the end of June on a fund-raising and morale-building tour of Idaho. The former Tennessee Senator's job as remodeler of the Republican Party must be one of the toughest and most frustrating lines of work anywhere.

Fighting a Democratic Congress, a popular Democratic President, a majority of Democratic governors and state legislatures, Brock doesn't have that many places where he can go and feel wanted.

A few days ago in Maine the Republican standard-bearer acknowledged how difficult his job has become.

Making the best of the deteriorating position of the Republican Party, Brock said the GOP has a special responsibility these days to offer voters a clear choice to the Democratic style of politics.

"The American people have been placed in a very dangerous of circumstance," Brock said, "They are in danger of being denied a true choice."

Brock then portrayed the beleaguered Republican Party as the savior of the American political system. He said the Republicans "have a special responsibility to be the voice of those who disagree with some or all of the policies now being imposed upon this nation by the Democratic majority."

Brock's comments equal about half a political loaf.

But the Republican-national chairman left out the most important half of the story when he talked about the Republican Party's responsibility in the nation.

No one will quarrel with the notion this nation needs two vigorous parties offering at least modest alternative political views. The GOP must continue as a national political force, as Brock says.

That's half the loaf.

The other half of the Republican loaf is getting people interested in the Republican Party.

A party composed only of dissidents from the Democratic political programs exists solely as a shadow of the political power structure.

A Republican Party defined by the actions of the Democrats is nothing more than an obstreperous child tugging at daddy's shirt-tails. The child tugs for awhile, gets some attention and finally is put in its place by daddy.

Republicanism cannot and should not be defined by the Democrats.

The Republican Party nationally somehow must develop a mind and a direction of its own.

That's the critical problem for Bill Brock.

Berry's World

"I've just learned that MY WIFE traded me for an undisclosed amount of cash and a player to be named later!"

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK
WASHINGTON—American businessmen, as a group, still are falling badly in the one area in which they need most desperately to succeed—in rebuilding consumer confidence in their products and in their integrity.

That melancholy conclusion emerges from a study of consumer attitudes just published by Sentry Insurance. The study was conducted under impeccable auspices—the Marketing Science Institute, and the public opinion research firm of Louis Harris & Associates. Some of the survey questions were so oversimplified that the tabulated responses have little meaning, but most of the figures look statistically valid.

The data provides an opportunity for a little of the old Dutch uncle bit. In almost any given controversy, this correspondent lends instinctively to side with the point of view of business, capitalism, free enterprise, and the open marketplace. These are the accumulated observations and prejudices of a life-time, and I make no apology for them.

All the same, business often strikes me as an exasperating business. My friends in free enterprise can be maddening, friends—bitter, blind, insensitive and inconsistent. They spend millions to buy the best public relations advice that one can buy, but reading this survey, one wonders how often they take it.

Some of the most disarming figures have to do with the "buying public's" "perceived changes" of the past ten years. For example, an overwhelming 73 per cent of the persons interviewed believe that products "do not last as long as they used to." Sixty-four per cent believe that it is "more difficult to get things repaired." Half of the sample believe that consumers today "are getting a worse deal in the marketplace" than they got a decade ago.

The Harris interviewers posed a series of questions having to do with guarantees and warranties. The answers reflected widespread dissatisfaction. More than half of the respondents could not understand the warranties. Fifty-seven per cent found them "inadequate." Almost half of the respondents thought the warranties were written "mainly for the protection of manufacturers."

As a part of the survey, persons in the public sample were handed a card listing 25 American industries. Were these industries doing a good job or a poor job of serving consumers? Only four of the 25 rated as much as a 25 per cent "good job." Banks led the list, with 41 per cent of the public approving; then came department stores, small shopkeepers, and telephone companies.

One out of every three consumers believe that car manufacturers, auto mechanics, the oil industry, and used car dealers are doing a poor job. A fourth of the public holds a poor opinion of hospitals, doctors, utility companies, credit loan companies, and the advertising industry.

Respondents were asked whether they agreed or disagreed with "certain perceptions of business. For example: It is hard to get a complaint corrected. Most companies are so concerned about profit they don't care about quality. Most manufacturers don't really care about giving consumers a fair deal. A majority of the respondents agreed on each of these statements.

The findings are not wholly bleak. Solid majorities believe that within the next ten years products will be safer and better labeled. Generally it is thought that "most companies will get better at handling the complaints of consumers." Nearly half the respondents look forward to a "better deal in the marketplace." A few other such tidbits emerge.

Overall, the survey adds up to a somewhat rosy view in board rooms. And perhaps the most striking conclusion is that businessmen are generally unaware of what is going on. The Harris interviewers questioned a sample of business executives. The executives, most of them, thought they were doing fine. They liked their products, their warranties, and their service; they uniformly deplored regulation; they seemed not to understand that something is wrong.

This is tough, unpalatable meat for business leaders; but they ought to bite into it. Unless they can change these public attitudes for the better, as the authors of the survey point out, "the call for far-reaching changes in the management and regulation of business may become irresistible."

Don't blame saccharin, blame rat

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON—Prof. Heinrich Applebaum called me explicitly the other day from his laboratory at the National Institute of Genetic Drug Statistics. "I think I've made a breakthrough in medicine that could win me the Nobel Prize."

"What is it?" I demanded.
"You have to come out and see for yourself," I dropped everything and took a taxi to the professor's lab.

He was waiting among his test-tubes.
"What did you do?" I asked.

"I developed a stronger rat that can survive any medical experiment we perform on it."

"I don't believe it."

"Come," he said, leading me over to a cage where two white rats were sleeping from a saucer of diet cola.

"I got the idea when I read the data on the saccharin, disintegrant. Something bothered me about it. Why were some rats getting sick after being forced to eat enough saccharin to kill a horse? The scientists blamed the saccharin, but the white rats, there are so many agents being fed and injected into rats that they keep keeling over. Drug companies have put millions of dollars into research, only to be told they couldn't market their product, because the white rats couldn't take it."

"So I decided there was only one answer to the problem. And that was to develop a white rat who could stand up to anything we shoved down his throat."

"If I could breed a white rat immune to any kind of disease the FDA would have to give its approval for the new drug."

"Only a mind like yours would think of something like that," I said.

"The trick was to find the right breeds. In every medical experiment there are white rats who are survivors. In the Canadian tests of saccharin only 12 of the 44 rats fed the stuff developed any symptoms. The other 32 thrived on the sweetener and became saccharin junkies."

"I purchased the two healthiest specimens and mated them, and then mated their offspring, and after four generations I got what I wanted—a super white rat that could withstand any punishment medical science could inflict on it."

"These are two of them. I've fed them the equivalent of 3,000 bottles of diet drinks a day; I've had them smoke 10 packs of cigarettes an hour; I've filled their cage with carbon monoxide; I've made Tris nightgowns for them, which they have worn for three weeks. I've even strapped them to the engine of a Concorde, and as you can see none of the experiments has had any ill effect on them."

"I've never seen two happier white rats in my life," I admitted. "I wonder why no one has ever thought of this before."

"Because they were looking for the wrong key," Applebaum said. "When a drug didn't come up to FDA standards everyone blamed the drug and not the rat. The ordinary white rat used in laboratories is a pampered animal. It doesn't know what it is to forage for food and slink around garbage dumps. From the day it is born it is given the best of everything."

"It's no wonder it can't handle a bite of DDT or a small dose of a birth control pill!"

Applebaum gave each rat a sugar cube.

"What's that?" I asked him.

"It's full of swine flu. They can't get enough of it," he replied.

"Applebaum, what does it all mean?"

"It means a bonanza for the drug and chemical industries. They will no longer have to lobby for less regulation on their products. It means that all the data we now have on what causes sickness in rats will be obsolete. It means once the orders start coming in for my white rats I'm going to be a millionaire!"

"Not to mention the Nobel Prize," I said.

"They'll have to give it to me," Applebaum agreed. "I've found the cure for every disease known to man."

Assassinations panel: nothing new

By WENDALL RAWLS JR.

© 1977 N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON—The House Select Committee on Assassinations, which has been in operation for eight months, has come up with virtually no new information or evidence relating to the death of President John F. Kennedy or of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and has discovered that much of the so-called "new information" on which Congress based its decision to reopen the investigations is in error, according to a well-placed committee source.

"We certainly have come up with nothing earthshaking," the source said, "and much that witnesses tell us is in conflict with what they supposedly told people who have written books about the assassinations and who have provided the basic leads for the committee to pursue."

An examination by The New York Times has determined that it was Mark Lane, the author and lecturer, who provided, on the basis of his published works, most of the "new leads."

Moreover, according to several officials familiar with the genesis and scope of the committee's investigation—and Lane himself—say Lane was the primary force behind the formation of the committee and the architect of the direction that the investigation should take.

Lane, a former New York State legislator better known for his book "Rush to Judgment," criticizing the official investigations of the Kennedy assassination, was unsuccessful for two years in his attempts to get Congress to reopen an investigation into the death of Kennedy in Dallas.

But early last year he began looking into King's death and persuaded the civil rights leader's widow, Coretta King, to solicit support from the Congressional Black Caucus for a reinvestigation of both assassinations.

Shortly after such an investigating committee was formed, Lane and the comedian Dick Gregory began work on a book about King and the assassination in Memphis. Lane refused to let his novel be presented from the publisher as an advance against royalties, but it was reported to have cost $100,000.

The book, entitled "Code Name Zorro," was recently published—at about the time that the committee, according to minutes of one of its executive sessions, was seeking favorable public and congressional reaction to its request for funds.

From the committee's inception, staff members, including Lane's books, theories and private investigations have provided the "working manuals" and the "working hypotheses" for the investigation.

The committee source said that "internal problems that resulted in the resignations of the committee's chairman, Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., and its chief counsel, Richard A. Sprague, had delayed the active investigation phase of the committee's work until the 'past two or three weeks.'"

This was true, the source said, even though the committee issued a report, March 28 asserting that it "was already pursuing 'new leads' and had processed 'new information.'"

Just as the committee almost collapsed in controversy a few weeks ago, much of the new evidence appears to be falling apart. The lack of credible new evidence has been cited to explain why the committee has been unable to obtain a new chief counsel to replace Sprague. Arthur Goldberg, the former Supreme Court Justice, and Archibald Cox, the former, Watergate special prosecutor, have both declined the post.

The report of March 28 said, "much of the new evidence is of a highly sensitive nature and cannot be publicly disclosed at this time," but gave "representative examples which illustrate the leads the committee is currently pursuing."

In one of the examples apparently designed to show that the Warren Commission was remiss in its conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald had never seen Jack Ruby before Nov. 22, 1963, the report said the "committee staff has spoken with unnamed witnesses who have never been previously interviewed," and who stated that in November 1963, before the assassination of Kennedy, the witness was introduced to Oswald by Jack Ruby.

According to Harold Weisberg, a former Senate investigator who has investigated the Kennedy assassination for the last 13 years, written six books about it and collected thousands of pages of government documents through the Freedom of Information Act, the unnamed "witness" is a former nightclub dancer who performed under the name Cochise.

According to Weisberg, Cochise is now married to a clergyman and living in Texas. Weisberg observes that "Cochise" says "she was introduced by one man, now dead, to another man, also dead, and there is no way to prove or disprove it."

The report cites another unnamed "witness" who was an FBI security code clerk in the New Orleans field office from 1961 to 1966 and who says that the FBI sent a teletype message to all its offices five days before the Kennedy assassination warning of a reported conspiracy by a "militant revolutionary group" to kill the President on his proposed trip to Dallas on Nov. 22 and 23.

That, witness, according to Weisberg, is William Walters, who served as an FBI clerk on a CBS television show and to another congressional committee 18 months ago, congressional committee 18 months ago.

Weisberg, who favors a thorough reinvestigation of the assassinations and does not believe that either death happened as official versions contend, maintains that the committee claims new and relevant information and leads that are neither new nor relevant and seemed to have been pursued "because of their public relations attractiveness."

Public opinion polls have shown that the vast majority of Americans do not believe that Oswald or James Earl Ray acted alone.

At a public hearing, the committee staff said that it planned to investigate a "letter purportedly written by Oswald to a 'Mr. Hunt,' asking that 'we discuss the matter fully before any steps are taken by me or anybody else.'"

Nothing in the letter says that the recipient was a "Mr. Hunt," said H.E. Hunt, E. Howard Hunt Jr., the Watergate conspirator. Weisberg asks, "What liberal politician or company hater would oppose checking into that letter, of which I have had a copy for two years and which has been available to the public for 18 months?"

As regards the assassination of King, the committee reported on March 28 that the "most important current developments is the willingness of James Earl Ray, who pleaded guilty to the murder, to talk to the committee."

The report does not say that Ray has been interviewed by at least four newspapers, the Tom Snyder "Tomorrow" television show and a French television show, or that he testified for two days under a $50,000 bail at an evidentiary hearing in October 1974 and testified in a civil lawsuit he brought against the author of a book about him.

The report said further that the committee had "uncovered other areas of possible assistance to Ray" and cited "bank records" as showing that Ray's safety deposit box in a Birmingham, Ala., bank "was closed by someone living in Baton Rouge, La.," while Ray allegedly was in Los Angeles.

According to Weisberg, who was hired by Ray's lawyer as an investigator for several years, Ray closed the safety deposit box by returning the key in a letter that he mailed from Baton Rouge while on a trip from Los Angeles to New Orleans.

The committee said that it was examining information provided by Lane that would implicate the Memphis Police Department and the FBI as assisting King's assassin "just before and immediately after the murder."

The evidence that the committee cites is that a black policeman was relieved of his assignment at a surveillance post on the day of the King murder. The report does not mention that 12 members of a police tactical squad were at that same point at the time of the assassination.

One of the committee members, Rep. Yvonne Brathwaite Burke, D-Calif., said "one of the biggest issues" the committee was investigating was how and why King was "lured" out onto the balcony of the Lorraine Motel where he was shot.

Mrs. Burke, as chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus in 1976, was one of the more influential people applying pressure on the House Democratic leadership to form a committee to investigate the assassinations.

Former Rep. Thomas Downing, D-Va., who was the first chairman of the Select Committee on Assassinations, said that his original resolution calling for an investigating committee limited it to a re-examination of the Kennedy assassination.

ARM AROUND his daughter, Lisa, 16, Albert Palange is hugged by his niece, Donna Palange, after arriving at Kennedy Airport in New York Monday from Mexico City. He was among 10 Americans freed from Cuban jails over the weekend. (UPI)

After 4 months in Cuban jail, pilot far thinner

NEW YORK (UPI) — Albert Palange's, sister-in-law saw him first.

"Oh, he looks terrible," she cried as Palange, 25 pounds thinner than he was when he was jailed in Cuba four months ago, strode down an airport hallway Monday night and tearfully embraced his family.

Palange, 43, of Wheatley Heights, N.Y., was one of 10 Americans released from Cuban jails over the weekend by Cuban President Fidel Castro in what U.S. officials interpreted as an overture to resumption of diplomatic relations.

He came through the customs lines at Kennedy Airport flanked by government officials who accompanied him on a commercial flight from Mexico City, where he was flown Sunday from Havana.

"God, it's good to be home," he said as he kissed his 16-year-old daughter Lisa, and hugged his brother Paul.

Palange, a charter pilot, was in a twin engine Cessna returning to Florida from Aruba March 8 when the plane experienced engine trouble over Cuban air space.

"They sent planes up after us," he told reporters. "It was either land there or crash, so we decided to land."

He said two other American passengers in the plane were charged with violating Cuban air space, but added, "They asked us questions about everything, we were just charged with everything."

The three were given a trial, conducted in Spanish which they could not understand, then sentenced to eight years in prison in Camaguey province and fined $6,000, Palango said.

The other Americans released during the weekend, including the two who were with Palange, were charged with various other offenses, but 20 more U.S. citizens remain in Cuban jails, according to State Department officials.

Palange said he lost 25 pounds from his normal 210 during his first 24 days in jail, but refused to explain the drastic weight loss or to say if he was beaten or mistreated.

Palange said he was cautioned by American authorities in Mexico City not to discuss Cuban jail conditions for fear of retaliations against the remaining prisoners.

He was taken by his family to his Long Island home where his wife, Gloria, was waiting for him.

"She's a nervous wreck," Palange's brother Joseph said, conducted in Spanish which they could not understand. "According to the guest registry at the Geneva Hotel in Mexico City the other Americans released were: William Butler, Richard Derling, Edward Rosen, Gerard Rozen, Bruce Savage, Michael Curran, Mack Hernandez and Thomas O'Hare. No home towns or ages were listed in the registry."

"They don't want their names or hometowns released and they don't want to say anything because they're thinking of their comrades," a source close to the prisoners said in Mexico City. "They're afraid there might be reprisals."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter was plunging today into extended sessions on the next federal budget — the first budget wholly his own and not his predecessor's.

Carter is moving into the budget planning stage early and said he already has checked over 70 per cent of the intricate and detailed allocations. The final version will not be sent to Congress until next January.

The President also today was putting the spotlight on the drive to cut into the nation's unemployment rolls, particularly those involving veterans, in a meeting with members of the White House Conference on HIRE — Help through Industry Retraining and Employment.

And the Carters were entertaining the Inaugural Portfolio Artists in the Rose Garden late this afternoon.

Because of statutory dates set for the budget presentation and the inauguration, the first year's budget for Carter, like other incoming Presidents, is largely the product of the man who preceded him in the White House.

Gerald Ford sent Congress the budget for fiscal 1978, which begins Oct. 1, in January and Carter had only a few weeks in which to review it and suggest amendments.

He now is working on his own budget for fiscal 1979.

The President said recently no other president in history so far as anyone remembers, has ever met with the Cabinet and other department officials in the initial stages of the springtime budget review.

In a published weekend interview he said he has set tight guidelines on spending and "we are not just working on the 1979 budget — we are working on the 1981 budget."

Carter has promised a balanced budget by 1981. He said the strict mandatory constraints — and zero-based budgeting where top federal officials must justify every item is "very good disciplinary action" and added that he believes government reorganization "will save a good bit of money."

In a related area, Carter said at a news conference Monday that it's premature to say whether there will be a loss to the Treasury under his tax reform program.

Asked whether he could balance the budget and still accept a revenue cut, Carter said he is having a series of meetings and has not yet made the key decisions on tax reform.

Like millions of other taxpayers, Carter and his wife Rosalynn received a two-month extension on filling out their 1976 income tax returns. The deadline for filing is Wednesday, and Carter said all that remains to be done is to get his wife's signature on the dotted lines.

Carter sticks to tough view

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite an effort to soothe energy policy relations with Congress, President Carter today was sticking firm to the generally tough approach of the White House program to avert national catastrophe.

And the Carters were entertaining the Inaugural Portfolio Artists in the Rose Garden late this afternoon. Because of statutory dates set for the budget presentation and the inauguration, the first overall oil consumption, a reduction in consumption of natural gas, a shifting toward increased consumption of coal, and an equitable means of pricing oil and gas to encourage additional exploration on the one hand and to protect the interests of consumers on the other — the cumulative effects of not meeting those goals would be catastrophic.

As he spoke, his program had minor advances and minor setbacks Monday. The House Ways and Means Committee approved and widened Carter's proposal to free buses from some excise taxes, but turned aside his idea of adding 4 cents to the tax on fuel for small aircraft.

CAREER vs. JOB

Does your present occupation offer opportunity for increasing income? It could be that a complete change in the course of your career would open the way to full development of your ability — and earning potential.

The 775 average income of career persons in our company was $27,000 plus — the 100 leading averaged $91,000 plus.

If you are the right person for the career opportunity, we offer an extensive three year training program, a salary of 10 to 18 thousand dollars, plus bonuses and fringe benefits.

Small quake shakes LA

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The second small earthquake in less than 24 hours shook the western Los Angeles area Monday.

The quake was weak, registering less than 3.0 on the Richter scale, scientists at the Caltech Seismology Laboratory said. They could not pinpoint the epicenter.

It was felt about 7 p.m. by Santa Monica, where one resident described it as a "sharp, jarring jolt" that rattled windows but did no damage. Santa Monica police said they received only two calls, neither reporting damage.

Dies

RETIRED Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark, 77, died Sunday night in New York City. Clark served 18 years on the Supreme Court, stepping down in 1967. He was born in 1890 in his home state of Texas. Ramsey Clark, could become U.S. attorney general. (UPI)

The Williamsses respond

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Composer Paul Williams ("We've Only Just Begun," "Phantom of the Paradise") wants Anita Bryant and the anti-homosexual rights campaigners to know just where he stands.

Williams and his wife Kelly took out a full page ad in today's Daily Variety, the show business newspaper, at a cost of $675, which says:

"Mr. and Mrs. Paul Williams, in response to Anita Bryant's crusade, have stopped drinking screwdrivers."

Kanarek files suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson's defense attorney, Irving Kanarek, sued the makers of the television film "Helter Skelter" Monday, charging that even under a fictitious name many viewers would recognize Kanarek in the film.

Kanarek charged invasion of privacy and defamation of character in a $15 million suit against Lorimar Productions, which made the film, CBS-TV, which broadcast it, and Manson prosecutor Vincent Bugliosi and Curt Gentry, who co-authored the book on which it was based.

Susan to snap 'Jaws'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Susan Ford, daughter of former President Gerald Ford, has become a movie photographer.

Miss Ford has been hired to photograph the making of "Jaws 2," sequel to the popular movie about a big shark, and will begin work next week on location at Martha's Vineyard, Mass, the film's producer, Richard Zanuck and David Brown, said.

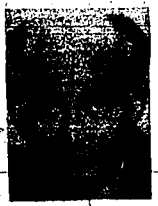

Carters to host luncheon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chip Carter and his wife Carol will host Princess Anne and her husband Mark Phillips at a small White House luncheon Thursday.

The President's son and daughter-in-law had a "fabulous time" representing the first family at the royal celebration of Queen Elizabeth's 25th year of reign, a spokesman said.

Princess Anne and her husband will be in the United States to unveil a statue of Queen Anne in Queen Anne county, Md.

Norman Lear sued

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Norman Lear, producer of "All in the Family" and other liberal message television shows, was sued Monday by a black writer who charged Lear with racial discrimination.

Eric Monte accused Lear and his production company of violating his civil rights by conspiring to prevent black writers or producers from marketing prime-time television series.

Student takes hike for charity

HOUSTON (UPI) — When American student Eddie Fischer arrived in the earthquake-devastated areas of rural Guatemala last year he was able to fill a personal obligation but unprepared for living without water.

While waiting to enter the Order of Jesuits, he made his home in the village of Rabinal. On Easter Sunday, he set out on Rabinal for an extraordinary 4,100-mile "walk for water" to raise $300,000 for a complete water system for the town.

Fischer, 21, is tanned, 20 pounds lighter and has walked through five pairs of hiking boots in his 60-day adventure. "Rather than fear, I have found just the opposite," he said. "I have had no dangerous circumstances and have felt safe the entire time. People have helped me out along the road."

Although he raised some funds to cover expenses, he ran out of money in Mexico and used his last 20 pesos to buy food. When he tried to sell some clothes, a man gave him 40 pesos.

He takes no donations on his journey, rather he asks that people making contributions send them to Walk for Water, Box 188, Villanova, Pa.

Despite the rugged country he has averaged about 30 miles per day. He carries little spending money and shares meals with people he meets and sleeps in parish homes.

His "uniform" is a blue Fellowship of Christian Athletes shirt, cutoff jeans and backpack.

Fischer said he worked in Rabinal almost to the moment he began his walk.

"I trained the first two weeks, then started walking. I really got in shape on the road."

When he reached the Guatemalan-Mexican border his brother, Mark, and a friend met him in a van and together they crossed Mexico — with Eddie walking 40 days across the arid land.

"The walk is helping me in a spiritual way," he said. "I do a lot of praying. I have a little physical pain, but it is mostly a spiritual thing."

I plan the work I have to do and it's good to clean out your mind. A refreshing experience."

Houston marked the 1,400-mile point of his trip. He hopes to reach his home town of Philadelphia sometime in September. He plans to spend his priesthood in South America.

Flag Day ceremonies under way

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Country singer Johnny Cash was singing in the House of Representatives and 170 troops were marching to the Washington Monument grounds for a Bicentennial ceremony — the 200th anniversary of the day the "Stars and Stripes" became the national flag.

On June 14, 1776, the Continental Congress, meeting in Philadelphia, adopted a resolution saying "the flag of the United States be 13 stripes alternate red and white, that the Union be 13 stars white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

George Washington, the stories go, asked Mrs. John Ross of Philadelphia — Betsy to her friends — to design the flag.

Historians now dispute that tale, but it persists.

Flag Day festivities officially began with the raising of the flag resolution Monday in Philadelphia's Independence Hall. A "colonial birthday party" was scheduled for Betsy Ross' house today.

Cash is scheduled to sing "Tagged Old Flag" to the House, a song about an old man describing a weathered courthouse flag, fancifully telling how "Washington took it across the Delaware" and "she turned blood red in World War II."

The Boston School All-City Choir was to sing patriotic songs, with troops dressed in period costumes carrying historic flags into the House chamber.

The military cut itself in on this year's ceremonies with a last-minute decision to erect a foot-long flagpole on the Washington Monument grounds.

Platoons from the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard were on hand for the hoisting of a 20-by-30-foot flag, and a speech by Army Secretary Clifford Alexander.

National Gallery of Art displayed replicas of 26 American flags in the sculpture garden, and opened an exhibit of flags by contemporary artists.

Participating were 8 persons from 14 countries meeting in Washington during the 7th International Congress of Vexillology, the study of the history and symbolism.

In the evening in nearby Virginia, the Marine Corps held its regular Tuesday evening color ceremonies at the statue that honors one of the most famous American flag raisings — the two Jima Memorial.

Hearing delayed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — David admitted withholding several memos from Hughes referring to a last will.

Freeze told the court that Richard Gano, named as special administrator, was not available to testify at this time.

Probate Judge Nell Lako had ordered Gano and his attorneys to provide all obtainable evidence about a will, filed the motion after Hughes' will.

Gay unit begins campaign

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Gay Task Force, trying to recoup from defeat in a Miami referendum on gay rights, has begun a nationwide campaign aimed at countering negative images of homosexuals.

"We have examined the reasons for the defeat for human rights in Dade County Florida and have reached the following conclusion: The majority of voters did not understand the discrimination gay people actually experience and did not see the issue in terms of civil rights," the group said Monday.

Bruce Voeller, co-director of the task force said the program — called "We ARE Your Children" in response to the "Save Our Children" banner of the Miami anti-gay group — is designed to show Americans "who we really are, and that we are not afraid of the truth."

The national gay rights movement was staggered last Tuesday when Miami area voters repealed by a 2-1 margin a county law barring discrimination against homosexuals in jobs and housing.

The unit's gay forces were led by singer Anita Bryant, who said Sunday she planned to expand her campaign to other cities.

"Gay men and lesbians are not child molesters, as Anita

Latin American nations due larger role in OAS

GRAND ANSE, Grenada (UPI) — The United States will voluntarily loosen its powerful grip over the Organization of American States at its conference opening today, U.S. officials say.

American journalist questioned

MOSCOW (UPI) — American Journalist Robert C. Tolson was summoned to a Moscow prison today for interrogation by the Soviet KGB.

The seven-day conference of delegations from all 25 OAS member nations was scheduled to begin with a speech by Grenada-Prime Minister Eric Gairy, whose Caribbean island nation is the newest and smallest member.

The U.S. campaign to assume a lower profile in Latin America began with the recent announcement it wanted to reduce its share of the organization's $65 million-a-year budget from 66 per cent to 49 per cent.

The southwesterly flow aloft continues to spread moist, unstable air into southern Idaho. Thunderstorms again formed over southern Idaho Monday and were locally heavy with some hail being reported. However, very little to no precipitation was recorded in Magic Valley.

Very little change in the weather pattern has occurred in the last several days and more of the same is on tap. The weather pattern will be shift—a little eastward—Wednesday for a slight decrease in thunderstorm activity but, all in all, little change is expected for the next several days.

The extended outlook for Thursday through Saturday calls for a slight chance of afternoon and evening thunderstorms.

Upset seen for Spanish Marxists

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — A poll conducted by the Spanish state of the Gallup organization today predicted an upset victory by the Marxist Socialist Workers' party in Wednesday's general elections.

A victory by the Socialists, already to the left of mainstream Western European Socialist parties, would have enormous consequences for Spain and pose problems for the United States.

The poll said the Socialists, led by Marxist Felipe Gonzalez, hold a narrow lead over the Suarez election front. The predicted vote would leave the Socialists short of a majority in Spain's first free elections in 41 years.

Blacks Angola-trained

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Three black terrorists who killed two white men in a daring broad daylight attack in downtown Johannesburg were trained in Marxist Angola, Police Minister Jimmy Kruger said today.

It appears that the people were trained in Luanda (the Angolan capital), Kruger told parliament, and they infiltrated into South Africa through neighboring Mozambique.

He said the terrorists were natives of the black ghettoes of Soweto on the outskirts of Johannesburg and Mamelodi, just outside Victoria, and that police had found three Soviet-made "Scorpion" .32-caliber automatic pistols and two hand grenades at the scene of the attack.

Johannesburg's Beils newspaper said the attackers were trained in Angola "by Russian and Cuban instructors in urban terrorism," and were part of a "possible cell of terrorists" whose members hid in South Africa's black ghettos.

Agency ponders fish kill suit

BOISE (UPI) — Farmers in the Boise drainage may be subject to legal action if they don't make more precautions in the use of an algicide that is suspected of causing a massive fish kill in a 20-mile stretch of the Payette River last week.

Jon Wroten, senior environmental quality specialist with the Idaho Division of Environment, said Monday his office is urging its central district to warn farmers to "make sure no waste water goes back to rivers and live streams" when they use the chemical acrolein to deter the growth of algae in their irrigation systems.

"This office strongly suspects" the use of acrolein was responsible for the death of 50,000 to 60,000 fish in a stretch of the Payette River from New Plymouth to Emmett, Wroten said.

The Farmers Coop Irrigation District used the algicide in its drainage ditches Monday and Tuesday, Wroten said.

"They thought they had a drain ditch shut off at the time but it wasn't and it was wasting some water into the Payette River," he said.

The ditch, which has several names, was located about one mile east of New Plymouth.

"We feel certain we know what they were using and when they were using it," Wroten said, adding that the division's central office and local staff is looking into possible court action.

The Idaho Department of Fish and Game "may want restitution for the trout killed."

"Ninety-nine per cent of the fish that died Wednesday were trash fish, however, Thursday the staff observed a lot of whitefish, which are classified as game fish," he said.

The department was notified of the problem Wednesday.

"This office is of the opinion that the central district should send out form letters to irrigation and drainage districts that this chemical is toxic to fish and since this is a critical year because of the drought they should use more precautions than normal. The letter should include a warning that they are liable if they don't cooperate and could be taken to court."

"The stuff is not harmful to crops but they should make sure no wastewater is going back to rivers and live streams and make sure it stays in the irrigation system," Wroten concluded.

The Department of Fish and Game and the Division of Environment were having difficulty tracing the cause of the kill because acrolein dissipates quickly leaving no trace in the burned, gill structures of the dead fish.

Acrolein has been used for the last two or three years in the Boise drainage. Caldwell Irrigation districts have used it for the last nine years with no reported problems.

The substance burns the gill tissues and essentially suffocates the fish.

The department is not closing the area to fishing since not all fish have been affected and the chemical disappears quickly. But fishermen are advised not to use the fish caught in that stretch for pet food or any other consumptive purposes.

Spokane lawsuit brakes building

SPOKANE (UPI) — For all intents and purposes, there is a building moratorium going on in the Spokane valley because of a pending lawsuit filed by environmentalists seeking to have sewers installed over the Spokane aquifer.

No one is calling it a moratorium, but the Spokane County Health District last week began issuing warnings that septic tank permits were subject to the outcome of the lawsuit, filed by the Washington Environmental Council and others.

This has had a domino effect on lending institutions and title companies which are reluctant to make loans and clear titles on buildings in the valley whose means of handling solid waste may be ruled illegal.

To the title companies, this could mean cloudy titles to purchasers, something most purchasers would balk at.

Public Health official Ed Pickett said he feels it is the county's duty to warn permit applicants that there is a suit pending.

The warning says the permit may be null and void if the suit is won by the environmentalists seeking to protect the underground water supply from possible septic tank pollution.

Pickett acknowledged he is getting a lot of queries about the warning. He said the lawsuit does provide for continued construction for permits obtained before June second.

But there have been hundreds of permit applications since then.

Dan Ohashi of Pacific First Savings and Loan said his company is continuing to take loan applications for construction in the valley, but the problem is clear. Little, and therefore construction, may be in jeopardy.

Another source said nearly all of the lending has stopped because of the uncertainty of the situation, however.

Ohashi said the matter has been referred to his company's attorney for an opinion and that's where the matter now stands.

Ohashi said the county lending institution without warning and now it must research the matter further.

The County began issuing the warnings last Wednesday to each permit applicant.

Onion crop value up

BOISE (UPI) — The sales value of the 1976 onion crop in Idaho and eastern Oregon was $2 million higher than the previous year, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.

The combined states' sales were $36 million last year compared to $34 million in 1975.

The 1976 production was recorded at 6,215,000 hundredweight. That compared with 4,500,000 hundredweight in 1975.

Almanac

Today is Tuesday, June 14, the 165th day of 1977 with 200 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening star is Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Gemini.

American novelist Harriet Beecher Stowe, author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was born June 14, 1811. This is actor Gene Barry's 56th birthday.

On this day in history:

In 1775, the U.S. Army was founded. Congress authorized the recruitment of 10 companies of riflemen to serve one year.

In 1777, the "Stars and Stripes" became the national flag.

In 1951, Wisconsin Republican Sen. Joseph McCarthy charged Defense Secretary George Marshall with having "common cause" with Russian Communist leader Josef Stalin during World War II.

In 1973, Jeb Stuart Magruder, a President Nixon election official, testified that he, John Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman and John Dean were involved in the Watergate bugging plot and subsequent cover-up attempt.

A thought for the day: Spanish novelist Miguel de Cervantes said, "Let every man mind his own business."

DEAR READERS: Immediately following Mother's Day, and for several weeks thereafter, I received numerous letters concerning that special day we set aside to "honor" Mother. Some excerpts:

"As far as I'm concerned, Mother's Day is a crock of excrement. All my kids are married and have their own lives, which is fine with me, but weeks can go by and none of them thinks to call me, but on Mother's Day they all fight over me."

CHICAGO MOM

"I had only one child, and I regret to say that it was a boy. He is married now, so every holiday he spends with HER mother. Whoever said: 'A son is a son until he takes a wife; but a daughter is a daughter all her life' sure said a mouthful."

MILWAUKEE MOM

Moms sing the blues

"My husband gave me a card for Mother's Day, and I told him I wasn't his mother, so we got into a fight over it. I happen to be six years older than him, but I am not old enough to be his mother. Was I wrong to get steamed?"

NOT HIS MOTHER

"I told her she was indeed wrong—that she was probably over-sensitive to the age difference, and that provoked her anger."

"When my only daughter sent me a check for $25 with a note telling me to buy myself something for Mother's Day, I told her I had found all day. If she's too busy, or lazy, or lacking in imagination to pick out a present, I certainly don't need her charity."

HURT IN WALPOLE, N.H.

"My son who lives in another city forgot me again on Mother's Day, but he called me the next day and fell all over himself apologizing. The damage had already been done and my Mother's Day was ruined. This is the third year it's done that. Next year I'm taking my phone off the hook."

EVERETT, WASH.

"What do you do with a mother who sends back the Mother's Day gifts she gives her? She says, 'I don't need anything and I don't want anything, so please take it back.'"

D. AND S.

"I wish my children would get together and buy me ONE useful gift. Every Mother's Day I get nine gifts I have to use for."

CLEVELAND MOTHER

"How many times should a mother have to tell her children she's allergic to flowers? For Mother's Day I got five bouquets against I told the delivery man to leave them on the porch, then I gave them to my neighbors."

PHOENIX

"Mother's Day I always get a useless gift like a fancy lightbulb I'll never wear, cologne I don't care for, or some little brooch or bracelet I'll never take out of the box. Why does so high these days, I wish they would give me the money instead."

PHILA. WIDOW

"As a retired school teacher who never married, but I've raised lovely children. The young boy who delivers my mail every morning knows that, so on Mother's Day he left me a sack of jellybeans and a lovely Mother's Day card, on which he wrote, 'You would have made a wonderful mother.' Wasn't that dear?"

TOUCHED IN TULSA

"Once a year my children buy me a corsage and take me to a crowded, noisy restaurant. Big deal! Where are they when I need my lawn mowed, my leaves raked and my car washed? Little favors during the year would mean so much to me."

ANONYMOUS MOTHER

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

My children are members of a baton marching unit. We go to a lot of parades during the summer. Sometimes it's an all-day parade, and we have drill competition in the morning—say about 10 to 11 a.m.—and wait until maybe 2 o'clock or even later for the parade to start.

Some of the parades are rather long and sometimes it gets terribly hot. We would like to know if we should allow the children to eat much while waiting for the parade. Also how much should they be given to drink on super hot days? Should they drink before or after the parade?

We have several drummers who carry very heavy drums and after the parade their shirts are always soaked. Sometimes after the parade we have trouble keeping them out of the water. Also what do you suggest about salt tablets for this age group? They are between 4 and 17 years old.

Let me say at once that you should not restrict how much water your children want to drink. Some coaches used to do this to athletes and it is exactly the wrong thing to do. It can contribute to developing heat stroke. Let them drink water before, after the parade, and if it is a very hot day they can drink along the parade route if that can be arranged.

Using salt tablets usually does more harm than good. This is particularly true if water is restricted. They should not salt but the way is to have them drink plenty of water and also drink at least a quart of low-fat milk or fortified skim milk a day plus a couple of 8-ounce glasses of orange juice. The orange juice won't provide sodium salt, but will provide potassium, which is also important. Milk has about the same salt content as the healthy human body. Then salt will also be available in foods and salt can be added to the food.

The scheduling of activities is important. Since early morning competition is over by 11 a.m. and the parades do not start until after 11 a.m., the amount of exposure during the hottest part of the day is limited. I would recommend that the children get out of the sun into a comfortable environment between the morning and afternoon sessions. That will give the body a chance to eliminate any heat build-up that has occurred before the afternoon parade begins.

Children who work in very hot environments would be wise to cool during the noon of the day and do their work later. This also applies to home gardeners.

I will answer representative letters of general interest in this column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 7701, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Hemlines stable

THIS crystal-pleated tiered chiffon print for a bare look dress was designed by Anthony Muto for Marita Fall collection. Hemlines aren't going anywhere for fall. They are stabilized somewhere below the knee. (UPI)

Friends on 'Tonight' call him Mr. Bland

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The cast of "The Tonight Show," especially Johnny Carson, takes delight in ribbing Tommy Newsum, the show's assistant conductor, about his lack of personality.

They call him Mr. Bland and "the man who brought new meaning to the word mundane." Once he was introduced as "the only honored graduate from the Arizona School of the Uncertain."

Newsum, who conducts the band when Doc Severinsen is otherwise occupied, laughs easily at the on-the-air innuendoes that he is something less than a ball of fire. "Maybe they're right," he says. "I don't do much."

One of the things he did was marry the former Pat Hearnansky 20 years ago. Along with the marriage, he became the stepfather of her two children by a previous marriage, Mark and Candy, both of whom are now adults.

Newsum came to the "Tonight Show" 15 years ago when Skitch Henderson was the conductor. He has been the lead saxophonist ever since. When the NBC-TV show moved west five years ago the Newsums packed up and left their "Toonick, N.J., home for California.

They live in a four-bedroom San Fernando Valley home situated on a half acre of rolling greenward, fruit trees and flower gardens. There's a swimming pool, too, but in observance of the fuel shortage it is no longer heated. Engo, neither Tommy nor Pat has been in for a swim this year.

The house is California ranch style and reflects the casualness of its owners. Tommy suspects his property was once part of an enormous orange grove. A gardener tends the lawn and shrubbery.

"The only honored graduate from the Arizona School of Uncertain."

Almost all of the Newsum furniture was brought from New Jersey, including an ancient sideboard and dropleaf table which Tommy inherited from his paternal grandmother.

The decor of the house is strictly early American with gleaming dark woods and muted fabrics.

Hemlines aren't going anywhere

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fashion designers and manufacturers call the new look for fall "unconstructed and piled on."

It's all too familiar to those of us old enough to remember the "tent" look of the late 1950s: full skirts, big coats to envelop them and pleats everywhere.

That's for daywear for women who like the feminine look.

Even those who prefer suits will find menswear classics with a softer look, fuller skirts instead of pants and shorter jackets that hint at a shapely figure beneath.

The feminine look carries over into evening wear collections.

Seventh Avenue, New York City's fashion center, likes the blouse top at any hour: sweatshirt fabrics and soft, fuzzy angoras and mohair for daywear; lacy knits, slinky satins and featherlight chiffons for evening.

Hemlines aren't going anywhere. They are stabilized somewhere below the knee.

These are among the trends in the collections New York manufacturers are showing as the first of the semi-annual "press week" presentations began Monday for the nation's visiting fashion reporters.

This week's shows are Mildred Sullivan's "New Directions." Next week, the Eleanor Lambert organization will bring on the bigger guns.

Exams are still around. M. Sullivan said, but demand for dresses is strong.

Even sportswear has a ladylike look, with jabots, puffed collars, laces and ruffles, big Casanova sleeves on blouses, and soft plaids or menswear fabrics in mantled shirts.

Pants look more like stage costumes than day-to-day wear. Loose legs gather around the ankle like modified harem pants. There are pencil slim slacks to be worn with loose tops and peg-leg pants and jodhpurs (classic riding pants, ballooning out from hip to boot top).

The peasant look is still with us, dirndl-skirted or belted, often in printed challis.

Energy-conserving outerwear ranges from giant balmacaams and tweed coats to ponchos, capes, huge shawls, sweaterscoats and unlined overcoats.

Soft and bright colors are everywhere, often mixed in a single costume. Heathy tones are used for beige, camel, rusts, green and lavender. Khaki is as strong as ever.

For contrast, there are clear, bright reds, vivid pinks, rich royal blue and purple, green and black, and for evening, gold and silver metallics.

It looks like a good year for boots, especially these with room for tucking in skinny jeans. Calf-high boots are the newest, with the fur-topped look for day and fur-topped or cowboy look in metallic materials for evening.

Ballet and dancing school flats are back for daytime. Jogging sneakers, moccasins and other sporty designs are for shopping and marketing as well as active sports.

With legs showing, stockings are more comeback, but the daytime versions are more durable than sheer silk and synthetics. Pantyhose and tights are still with us, now joined by thigh-highs, legwarmers, dancer's warm-up tights, boot-toppers and, of all things, bobby Sox, also known as anklets. Cable ribbing and other textured designs are big for day.

Many handbags have the pouchy, unconstructed look. Others are satchels, hunting bags, even canteens. The latter shows up for evening in metal, along with bracelet bags, belt bags and umbrellas.

For working women, briefcase bags are strong.

Apparently, the King Tut exhibit now touring museums in the United States has inspired jewelry designers. You'll see the Egyptian look in hammered metal, bold porcelain motifs strung on cord to swing and sway over loose blouses and dresses and elaborate bils (shades of Cleopatra) for evening.

Pearls are ombre gray or beige, worn the classic way or wrapped like a scarf. Black crystal is another evening motif, along with many hair ornaments.

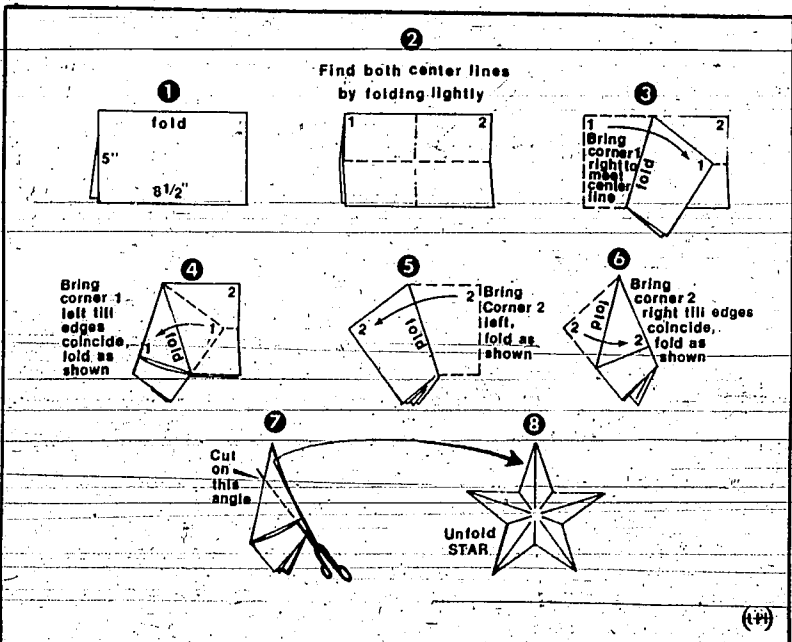

"She learned to cook by using the trial and error method on me," Tommy says. "Now she is terrific in the kitchen, especially with some veal dishes."

"The man who brought new meaning to the word mundane."

Now and then Tommy dabbles with oil paintings. He also does some landscape sketches. But he's self-conscious about his limited artistic talent and refuses to hang any of his works in the house.

The Newsums have a pet Labrador retriever, Poppy, and a pair of cats named Max and Beanie who have the run of the house and grounds.

"There's not much excitement around here," Newsum says. "But don't tell the guys on the show or they'll never stop kidding me about leading a dull life."

Protest eviction

DEMONSTRATORS STANDING two or three deep block the sidewalk in front of San Francisco's International Hotel, protesting against an expected forcible eviction of the building's occupants. The 70 year old structure is due for demolition. Many of the tenants are elderly Asians. Residents hope public support will delay their court-ordered eviction. (UPI)

Extra steel disappears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Lockheed Shipbuilding and Construction Co. billed the government for 73 million pounds of steel in excess of what went into 12 Navy vessels, federal officials told Congress Monday.

Goodwin Chase, chairman of the Renegotiation Board, told the Senate Banking Committee he didn't know where the extra steel was used or where it went.

The Renegotiation Board, established 25 years ago, tries to prevent defense contractors from making "windfall" profits. The committee is considering debating the board, as some urge, or strengthening it.

Chase said the firm, a subsidiary of Lockheed Aircraft, could have built 20 boats instead of the 12 the government ordered. The ships in question, amphibious transport docks called LPDs, were built between 1968 and 1971, said Chase.

Chase, recently appointed by President Carter, accused his predecessors of "ineptness and ineffectiveness." He said they conducted a " cursory, inadequate" review of the finances of Lockheed Aircraft, the parent company in 1974, and came up with figures showing a $68 million loss for the next fiscal year.

Chase's group reviewed the data later and found the "68 million loss was in fact a $4 million profit," he testified.

One pending bill, would, among other things, require renegotiation of contracts by product lines rather than company-wide.

Chase's figures showed that while Lockheed as a whole earned a 3.8 per cent profit on net worth, some of its divisions lost money and others earned profits up to 26 per cent.

David Packard, chairman of Hewlett-Packard Co. and former deputy secretary of defense, testified the Renegotiation Board isn't needed any longer. He said the government should concentrate on getting the costs of big procurement programs down — not on holding down profits.

Carter names FBI prospects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Monday identified five top candidates, including a black sheriff and two judges, under strong consideration to head the FBI.

The five, selected from among 235 contenders by a special presidential committee, were identified by Carter at a news conference.

He called each "superbly qualified" to replace retiring FBI Director Clarence Kelley.

Among the five is Sheriff William Lucas, 49, of Wayne County, Detroit, Mich. — a black and former FBI agent.

The other four are Los Angeles District Attorney John Van De Camp, Associate Justice John J. Irwin Jr. of the Massachusetts Superior Court, Special Agent Neil John Welch in charge of the FBI's Philadelphia office, and U.S. 7th Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Harlington A. Wood of Chicago.

"We may or may not choose one of these five, but the likelihood is that we shall," Carter said.

... a drifter, a loser

Ray's history confusing tale

© Chicago Daily News

A drifter, a loser — James Earl Ray is perhaps this country's most confusing assassin.

He bungled petty crimes from Los Angeles to Chicago, where he fell out of a cab while robbing the driver, yet he snaked a fatal sniper bullet into the throat of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. on a Memphis hotel balcony while the civil rights leader was under 24-hour protection by the FBI.

Then he eluded a worldwide manhunt for two months as he slipped into Canada, Portugal and finally England, where he was arrested at London's Heathrow airport.

Once arrested, he denied killing King.

Once extradited, he admitted the murder.

Once jailed, he denied the murder and came up with hints of a conspiracy so chilling and potentially far-reaching that even the Rev. Jesse Jackson, who watched in horror as King fell, inches away, now believes that Ray did not act alone.

A House Assassinations Committee was in the midst of investigating Ray's charges when the Southerner broke out of a Tennessee prison.

Now the questions he has raised may never be answered — an unsatisfying finale to the story of a man who has always been a vexation to authorities.

Born in Illinois, even his birthplace has not been pinpointed. Police believe he came from either downtown Quincy or Alton. His childhood was marked by poverty; his mother drank, his father ran out.

Tragedy struck Ray early and often. His sister was burned to death. His brother died in a car crash. Two brothers ended up in prison.

Ray's two-year stint in the army ended in 1948 with a discharge "due to ineptness and lack of adaptability to military service." During that time, he has spent three months at hard labor for drunkenness and "breaking arrest."

It would not be the first time he would break arrest.

Trouble haunted Ray regularly after that. Within a year, he was jailed in Los Angeles for burglary. In 1952, Ray flew a robbery attempt in a Chicago cab. He lived in a Chicago rooming house.

His police record grew — armed robbery, robbery, forgery of U.S. postal money orders.

His list of aliases grew as well. By the time of the King assassination, he accumulated a dozen aliases, most with the first name, James or Jim.

Perhaps his best-known alias — the one he allegedly used in London — was Eric S. Galt.

Galt, a journalist in Missouri, was in prison where Ray had spent time and read books that convinced Ray, James Earl Ray, was a character named Eric and Galt.

Not a big man — about 5 feet 11, between 160 and 175 pounds — Ray, apparently had little trouble in 1967. He was a veteran of prisons and he knew how to do what others call "easy time."

Apparently his patience with easy time ran out. His 99-year sentence would try the patience of the most hardened man.

After Ray's arrest in London, speculation arose about the ease with which he had traveled. Some suggested he had help in the form of influential backers, the type who could arrange forged passports and finance expensive travel plans.

At the time of his arrest, he was en route to Brussels from Lisbon.

The furor of speculation never subsided. Only a week after Ray's arrest, Ray's outspoken brother, Jerry, first suggested that Ray was "used" by a "rich southern party."

That allegation is still alive, and forms the nucleus of Ray's most recent unsettling claim:

"I personally did not shoot Dr. King, but I believe I may be responsible for his death."

Nine months after his arrest, Ray pleaded guilty, avoided a trial, and was sentenced to 99 years in jail — a life sentence.

Three days after his guilty plea, he changed his story. He claimed that he did not fire at King, although he was in Memphis at the time of the slaying. He named a man known only as "Raoul" as a co-conspirator.

Finally, Ray charged that his attorney, Percy Foreman, pressured him into pleading guilty to the crime. Foreman, Ray charged, predicted Ray would "barbecue" in the electric chair unless he capitulated.

A U.S. Court of Appeals allowed Ray to seek a new trial, but a federal judge in February, 1975, later refused to allow Ray to withdraw his guilty plea.

That November, Ray's new lawyers asked for another chance from the federal appellate court but they blocked him again.

Then Ray started talking, and hinting, and investigators started perking up at the conspiracy charges Ray raised.

Last March 28, Ray had the first of five meetings with House investigators in which he mentioned an alibi witness — a man named Willie Green.

Green, Ray said, was a man who could testify that Ray was in a Memphis gas station at the time King was shot.

When questioned, Green said his boss could identify Ray as being at the gas station, which was only seven blocks from the hotel where King was shot.

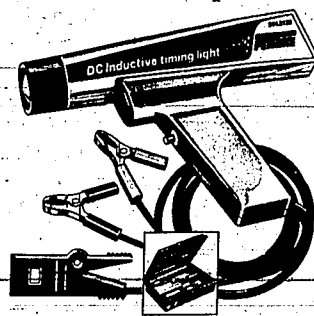

Raoul, Ray added, may have been the murderer. Ray said a month before the murder, he met Raoul in Birmingham, Ala. The two had previously met in Canada, during a smuggling operation. Raoul gave him enough money to live on for a year, Ray told investigators.

Also, Ray said, Raoul seemed a man the FBI had arrested in Dallas for questioning on the day that President John F. Kennedy was slain in November, 1963.

Ray said he was transported to a rooming house at a certain time on April 4, 1968 (the day King was slain).

Cuba releases ten Americans

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Ten Americans were released from Cuban prisons and flown from Havana Sunday night, U.S. Consul Vernon McIninch said Monday.

He said the group arrived late Sunday night, via Mexicana Airlines flight from the Cuban capital and were met "by people from the consular office."

McIninch said all 10 were expected to leave for their home towns in the United States today.

"They're out getting tickets now," McIninch told UPI by telephone this morning. "We'll get them out of here today and probably this morning."

He declined to disclose the names of the 10 men or their hometowns.

The consul said the Swiss Embassy in Havana arranged for the prisoners' transportation to Mexico City. The U.S. embassy in Mexico City is arranging for their flights back to the United States, which are being paid for by the men's families, he said.

The Castro government decided earlier this month to release 10 of the 30 Americans held in Cuban jails. Those freed were apparently in prison on drug charges.

Seven Americans held for "political" reasons were not included in the amnesty according to the State Department.

Czech dissident leaves country

NEUNAGELBERG, Austria (UPI) — Czechoslovak dissident Zdenek Mlynar, the first major signer of the human rights document Charta 77, arrived with his wife Monday at this border crossing point to seek asylum in Austria.

He thereby accepted a long-standing offer of Chancellor Bruno Kreisky who offered all signers of Charta 77 asylum in his neutral country.

Mlynar, 46, a former Central Committee secretary, was given "visa" to leave Czechoslovakia after being harassed and interrogated several times by police for having signed Charta 77.

He also lost his job in the Prague National Museum as a result of his support voiced in favor of the human rights document.

Mlynar came to this

Austro-Czech border check point in a green Skoda car.

The Mlynars stopped shortly at the border station for the usual border check-up and then drove on to Vienna.

Mlynar is the first major signer of the Charta 77 document to leave his country.

He served as Central Committee secretary under Alexander Dubcek, the former Communist party leader whose "Communism with a human face" was crushed by Soviet tanks in August, 1968.

After the Soviet invasion, Mlynar was subjected to persecution that climaxed in his ouster from his job in the Prague National Museum earlier this year.

Political sources here said Mlynar may consider emigrating to the United States after a brief stay in Austria.

Dog attack probed

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Deputies are investigating an attack by three dogs on a 7-year-old girl who suffered several puncture wounds in the incident, according to Sheriff Jay Kelton.

Kelton said the girl was treated for scratches and puncture wounds Saturday night at Routt County Memorial Hospital. She was released the same night.

The sheriff Sunday said the attack took place Saturday at a home one mile west of Steamboat Springs where the girl had gone to visit a neighbor. Kelton said the dogs — a German Shepherd, a collie and a mixed breed — had been fenced in the yard, but someone had left the gate open. All three dogs belonged to the neighbor, he said.

Kelton said the girl, who he declined to identify because of her age, said all three dogs attacked her. The sheriff said his investigators reported there were two witnesses to the incident, but they have not yet been located.

The dogs have been placed in a local animal hospital for observation, said Kelton, and the investigation is continuing.

Three pet dogs earlier this year were suspected of killing a 6-year-old girl in Breckenridge, Colo., as she walked to the home of a playmate April 3, and a young man suffered minor injuries in an attack by a Doberman Pinscher in Dillon later the same month.

Benefit nets $1,500

WENDELL — Who says neighborliness and concern are out of style? Residents of Wendell have raised $1,500 at a benefit dinner for Dr. Paul Yocum, 60, who suffered a heart attack in April.

"It's not just the money," Mrs. Yocum said Tuesday. "It's the idea. You can't believe all the food and help people have given us, even before the dinner."

The Yocums have only been in Wendell about 2½ years, coming here from Lebanon, Pa. He was the town's only doctor after the retirement of Dr. Holsinger, until a younger man, Dr. Robert Robertson, moved here last December.

Not only have Wendell residents donated money for the family, but special prayers have been offered for the doctor's recovery every Sunday in every church in Wendell, his wife said.

Members of the Eastern Star "started the ball rolling" for the dinner, Mrs. Yocum said, "when the whole town took over." She said she could not name anyone because so many people had participated.

Organizers for the dinner expected to raise about $300, she said. Instead the event raised more than $1,500.

"They ran completely out of food," Mrs. Yocum said. In addition to the dinner neighbors have been caring for the Yocums' lawn and garden ever since the doctor had his massive heart attack April 25.

"Three ladies come every day to weed the garden," Mrs. Yocum said.

Innocent plea given

TWIN FALLS — Alley Bar and Restaurant owner Ralph Faught has pleaded not guilty to three counts of receiving stolen property in an alleged fencing operation conducted here last year.

Faught was charged with receiving stolen property in connection with the thefts of jewelry from a Twin Falls home and a Twin Falls jewelry shop and thefts of television sets from a Sears and Roebuck warehouse here.

In January, police issued a warrant for Faught's arrest. He turned himself in the next day. At a preliminary hearing in May, Magistrate Judge Paul Smith found probable cause to believe Faught was guilty of receiving stolen property and ordered him to face a trial in district court.

After Faught pleaded not guilty in district court, he was released on his own recognizance and a property bond the court had asked for was exonerated.

Six men have already pleaded guilty to charges in connection with the alleged fencing operation.

Petitions circulated

SHOSHONE — Petitions opposing the coal-fired electric generating plant proposed by Idaho Power Co. are being circulated in Lincoln County, Gary Will, Shoshone, said today.

He said the petitions request Lincoln county commissioners to give citizens the right to vote on the issue. Petitions, not only for Lincoln, but also other, Magic Valley counties will be available at a public panel discussion meeting Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Shoshone Grade School.

Two locations in Lincoln County, at the Tunupa siding about six miles east of Gooding, and Sid's Crossing, 15 miles east of Dierks, have been given top ranking in an Idaho Public Utilities Commission study of 21 possible sites being considered by Idaho Power for location of a 500 megawatt plant.

In addition to panel members previously announced for the Friday night panel discussion, Tony Yankel, Boise, Health and Welfare Department environmental engineer, and Dr. Robert Halford, Boise heart and lung surgeon, will speak.

Light favored

TWIN FALLS — City Councilman Chris B. Talkington has released a poll he took of downtown Twin Falls merchants, showing most of them favor a traffic light at the intersection of Main and Shoshone Street.

The survey, conducted two weeks ago, shows 28 of 49 downtown merchants polled or about 57 per cent favoring a light at the intersection to help solve vehicular and pedestrian traffic problems there.

Seven merchants or about 14 per cent favored blocking through traffic on Main by placing a partition on Shoshone Street. Six or about 12 per cent said they thought the intersection should be left alone.

PAUL — The Paul Elementary School was damaged severely in an early morning fire today.

The fire erupted some time between 4 and 4:30 a.m. today. The blaze was fought by fire-fighting units from the Westend Fire District and the Rupert Fire Department.

Lund Christensen, principal of the Paul school, said the fire apparently started in the office area at the north end of the newer section of the school, where it adjoins the older structure.

The fire spread in both directions, badly damaging the fourth grade classrooms on the south and the fifth and sixth grade rooms in the older section on the north.

The blaze burst through the roof in several places and one wall fell away from the building as a result of the fire.

Lowder said the school board will probably meet to discuss the gutted school building soon. Doyle Lowder, assistant supt. for the Minidoka School District said the school board will probably meet to discuss the gutted school building soon. Lowder said an insurance inspector was scheduled to go through the damaged building later today.

The school district has assigned personnel to watch the building today for further outbreaks of fire. Lowder said the guards will probably be continued through the night, to prevent any possibility of looting.

Lowder said the fire will displace about 485 students who attended the school.

The older section of the school was constructed about 1918 or 1920, according to Lowder. The new section was constructed partially in 1954 and the remainder in 1960.

Lowder said the board will have to consider relocation of the students or double shifting at some schools or both to provide classrooms for pupils assigned to the Paul school.

"I'm sure we will have to have some double shifting at the start," Lowder said.

The assistant superintendent was particularly concerned about the structural stability of the building because of the cost of replacement.

"I'm hoping there's enough of a structurally sound building that we can come in and remodel this one," Lowder said.

He admitted that the cost of remodeling could run as high as or higher than replacement cost of construction, but said he was concerned about the cost of additional land.

Lowder pointed out that new regulations require that new school buildings be constructed on minimum sizes of land parcels.

The Paul Elementary School itself, stands on about 2½ acres, with about 5 acres of land behind for a total of 7½ acres.

Lowder estimated that 22 acres of land would be required under existing regulations "as a site for a building this size."

Sewer hook-up moratorium threatened

By BOB ZUCKERMAN
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — State water quality officials have threatened to place a moratorium on Twin Falls subdivision sewer hook-ups unless the city can "justify" this month's Twin Falls-Waste Water Treatment plant problems.

In a letter mailed last week to Mayor Paul Ostyn, Al E. Murray, chief of the state Bureau of Water Quality, gave the city 14 days to respond.

"I think it's a bunch of hogwash," Mayor Ostyn said this morning when read parts of the letter over the phone. "Someone is trying to impress the public with the fact that they exist and is more concerned with the press than with working with the city to correct a problem."

From October through April, the city's sewage plant discharges pollutants into the Snake at levels exceeding Environmental Protection Agency guidelines, according to plant records. In his letter, Murray says excessive discharges have been occurring since April, 1976.

City Manager Jean Millar was unavailable for comment this morning.

The plant continued to expel waste at levels exceeding Environmental Protection Agency standards this May, recently released plant records show.

On 17 days last month, the plant expelled suspended solids, one type of plant waste, into the Snake River at levels exceeding EPA maximums.

On 22 days last month, the oxygen demand level of expelled waste was higher than that allowed by the EPA. Oxygen demand is how much oxygen is needed to pull from surrounding water to stabilize.

City Manager Jean Millar Monday reiterated earlier charges that EPA standards were "unrealistic," and that plant officials were doing everything possible to lower excessive pollutant levels.

He said the city was still "on schedule" with its plan to lower pollutant levels so they conform with EPA guidelines by Aug. 1.

He emphasized the city in May was removing as much as 98 per cent of the suspended solids in waste received at the plant when the plant was only designed to remove about 85 per cent.

In his letter, Murray also complains of inadequate staffing at the plant, and says a lack of staff caused piping at the plant to wash out last January, causing pollutant levels to jump 20 times above EPA guidelines.

Plant officials earlier said the January washout was caused by a malfunctioning valve which caused treated sewage to backup and break a pipe. No estimates of the amount of treated waste lost was available.

"If someone had been on duty at the plant, the damage could have been minimized," the letter says.

While the city has hired seven new persons at the plant, bringing staff up to 18, Murray said he wasn't satisfied.

"Just because they've hired the bodies doesn't mean they have sufficient staff," he said. The current staff will need "a long time" to gain necessary experience to operate the plant, he said.

He said the city should "pay the price" for "a solid base of trained personnel."

City officials have repeatedly said the cost of bringing trained personnel in from out of state were prohibitive. "We've gone out and hired experienced people before, only to have them leave us for higher pay in a bigger city," Ostyn said.

Buhl schools plan appeal

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

BUHL — Trustees of the Buhl School District will appeal a decision by the State Board of Education to allow 120 acres of land in the Buhl school district to be annexed to the Wendell district.

Board members voted unanimously Monday to appeal the matter after a discussion by Superintendent Dan Mabe and board member Dr. H.E. Hammerquist who attended a state Board of Education meeting last week at which the action was taken.

Mabe told the board he felt students should attend whatever school they chose, but said changing the boundaries of a school district to accommodate all such cases could set a dangerous precedent.

Mabe said parents already have the option of paying tuition so their children may transfer to other districts if other districts have space for additional students.

"I don't see anything wrong with a student attending the school of his or her choice, but I do see lots of problems all over the state if the state board starts changing school district boundaries," Mabe said.

He said in the Buhl district, the students who wish to attend school in Wendell should be allowed to do so, but he said, bond issues have been set up on a basis of assessed valuation of the entire district.

Buhl just passed a $2.5 million bond issue in October to be repaid in 20 years by taxpayers of the district.

Once a bond is passed, it becomes something of a lien on the school property regardless of what is done after that time. "I don't think the property owners realize they will be paying 14 mills in the Buhl district, regardless of the boundary changes, and could also be obligated for bond issues in the Wendell district," Mabe said.

"What we will be doing," he said, "is creating a 500 acre special taxing unit on which separate taxes will have to be calculated and carried on the books."

Dr. Hammerquist said the Buhl district was asked to present its position first in the hearing on this matter and the Wendell district followed. The public then commented, he said, and he felt the state board decided on the basis of convenience to the families, without considering their costs.

Plan draft coming

BURLEY — One of Cassia County's most adamant opponents of comprehensive planning says he will complete a new preliminary draft next week for a county plan.

Norman Dayley, elected commissioner last fall after campaigning heavily against a state mandate for local planning, said Monday he and county legal counsel Steve Bywater will complete the initial draft next week.

Two University of Idaho extension service representatives sharply criticized the "closed doors" method of drafting the new plan.

The draft is intended to replace a comprehensive land use plan presented to county commissioners nearly two years ago, along with both zoning and subdivision drafts.

Under heavy pressure from anti-planning forces chaired by Dayley, commissioners delayed action on the original plan until Nov. 1, 1976, and have not yet acted on it.

At the time, Dayley assured commissioners planning opponents would help draft a plan in time to meet the legislative mandate of Jan. 1, 1977.

Arthur Rathburn, development specialist for the extension service, charged Monday Cassia County commissioners are "working on this plan in the back room."

He and Cassia county extension agent Wayne Cole told commissioners there people should be involved in order to gain public input for the plan.

Cole warned that "closed doors" work by commissioners "create a lot of animosity."

Dayley Monday repeated his position that the state comprehensive planning act of 1975 is unconstitutional and that legislators "overstepped their bounds," in requiring local entities to adopt land use plans.

UCLA coach leaves for Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Gene Bartow, head basketball coach of the UCLA Bruins for two seasons, has been hired to build a basketball program at the University of Alabama in Birmingham, UAB President Dr. S. Richardson Hill Jr. announced Monday.

Hill said "Gene will serve as Athletic Director and head coach of the UAB basketball team we hope to field during the 1978-79 season." The school currently has no athletic program.

Bartow has completed two seasons at UCLA, compiling a record of 28 wins and four losses in 1975-76 and 24 wins and five losses in 1976-77. His UCLA team won the Pacific-8 title both years.

Hill said Bartow "is one of the great coaches and leaders of young people in the country today, and we have confidence he will continue his outstanding leadership at UAB."

Hill said Bartow was not in Birmingham. The announcement had been scheduled for a news conference Tuesday morning but an embargo on it was broken late Monday.

At UCLA, athletic director J.D. Morgan, the man who hired Bartow to succeed John Wooden, said he had not heard from his basketball coach about the Alabama-Birmingham job.

"I will have no further comment about the matter until I hear from coach Bartow," he remarked.

Morgan confirmed last Thursday that Bartow had asked for UCLA's permission to talk to Alabama-Birmingham.

Bartow's secretary at his UCLA office said the Bruin coach was "out of state" but would not divulge his whereabouts. Bartow's home phone was disconnected.

Despite his two-year record of 52-9 at UCLA, Bartow, 46, has come under strong fire from Bruins' fans and alumni, particularly after a weak recruiting season. Bartow's first UCLA team was eliminated by Indiana in the NCAA semifinals and his second was knocked off by Idaho State in the NCAA West Regionals last spring.

Bartow, who has been in coaching for 22 seasons, reacted sharply to some of the criticism. Wooden, the Wizard of Westwood whose Bruins won 10 NCAA titles in his last 12 years at UCLA, called Bartow "too sensitive."

A possible successor to Bartow is Gary Cunningham, a former Wooden assistant and the man Wooden reportedly wanted to succeed him. After Wooden retired, Cunningham became director of UCLA's alumni Association.

"After John Wooden retired, Gary said he was getting out of basketball and going into administrative work," Morgan said this week.

Asked if Cunningham would be among those contacts if Bartow leaves, Morgan said, "You can bet Gary would be contacted, along with several other coaches, of course."

Two others who come to mind are Digger Phelps of Notre Dame and Denny Crum of Louisville.

What next?

NEW YORK Mets ace pitcher Tom Seaver said Monday he would play for the Cincinnati Reds if vetoed by the Mets. Seaver has the right to veto his trade because he has been with the Mets for 10 years.

Blakeley posts top score in pro-am

BURLEY — Burley amateur Glen Blakeley led the field, pros and amateurs, with a three-under par 61 during the annual Burley pro-am golf tournament Monday.

Blakeley won the amateur gross division with his 68 and also helped the Burley "A" team into a three-way tie for first in the team best ball division.

His closest competition came from the professionals who saw their sweetstakes won by Stoney Brown of Boise and Bob James of Idaho Falls at 69. Pros Billy Downs of Jackpot and Gary Mathie of Pocatello were third at 70 while the trio of Dave Barrett, Blackfoot; Denny Howell, Pocatello, and Mike Ceriello Jr., Burley, shared fifth.

Three shots behind Blakeley in the 6-11 handicap gross division was Gary Duncan, Twin Falls, while Bob Hales of Idaho Falls tied 72 and Jim Purves, Twin Falls, and Terry Spakeman, Burley, were tied at 73. Net honors in that division went to Steve Beebe of Boise at 64 while five men, DeLynn Hathaway, St. Anthony; Herm Boston, Caldwell; Gary Jenkins, Twin Falls; Dave Roper, Burley, and Herm Longhurst, Pocatello, were knotted at 65.

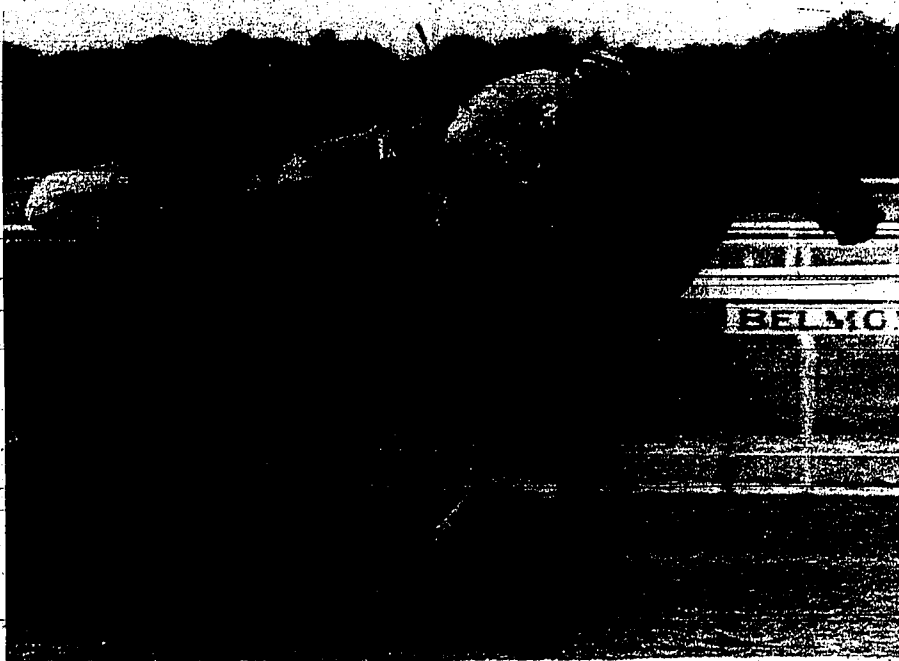

In the 12-and-over handicap race, Jay Browne of Boise won gross at 76, followed by Darwin Williams, Burley, and Chris Anderson, Burley, at 77; Kent Church, Burley, at 78, and Wes Karlson, Burley; Dick Rees, Kimberly, and Murray Satterfield, Caldwell, at 79.

A Gonzales of Blackfoot took the net prize with a walking-in 56, followed by Wayne Murphy, Burley, 63; West Startin, Twin Falls, 64, and Guy Keep, Jackpot, and Earl Lovan, Caldwell, 65.

The Longhurst clan, aided by Tom Keelon and Chris Anderson, came within a stroke of making the team event a family affair. Father Herm Longhurst, Pocatello, and son Gooding pro Rick Longhurst and Dr. Bill Longhurst, Phoenix, plus Keelon and Anderson posted a 30-under 183.

That tied them with the host team of Mike Ceriello Jr., Blakeley, Darwin Williams, Kent Church, and Frank Langer and Nampa five some of pro Larry Stroup, Everett Schille, N. Moody, Dick Barger and Murray Satterfield.

In fourth place was the Pocatello team of pro Denny Howell, Ted Marshall, Al Sher, Don Lenon and Laurence Browning, at 184 while Blackfoot had a 186. Members of that team were pro Mike Dayley and amateurs B. Herbst, D. Dahl, Gonzales and P. Drellinger.

Forego nears Kelso

Forego moves to second on all-time money list

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three-time Horse of the Year Forego moved into second place on the all-time money winning list for thoroughbred racing Monday after a typical powerful stretch run brought him victory in the 1 1/4-mile, $53,750 Nassau County Handicap at Belmont Park.

The half-length win, worth $32,250, increased the 7-year-old Furlong gelding's career earnings to $1,771,107 for his owners, Lazy F Ranch, and pushed him past Round Table ($1,749,869) into second place behind five-time Horse of the Year Kelso.

Kelso's all-time mark of $1,997,896 is within reach this year as Forego's owners plan to run him in the $100,000 Suburban July 4, the $100,000 Brooklyn July 23, the $150,000 Woodward Sept. 17, the $250,000 Marlboro Cup Oct. 1 and the $300,000 Jockey Club Gold Cup Oct. 15, all at Belmont.

The triumph was the third without a loss this year for Forego and the fifth straight win under jockey Willie Shoemaker, who assumed the mount on Forego starting with last year's Woodward Handicap. It was also the second consecutive year Forego has won the Nassau, a feat unduplicated in the 22 runnings of the race.

Forego carried 136 pounds — a stakes record for the weight for a winner — in fifth place in the seven-horse field for the first three-quarters of a mile. He edged into fourth at the top of the stretch, three-quarters of a length off the pace, and closed strongly in the final yards to win in 1:48.1-5.

Co Host, carrying 28 pounds less than Forego at 110, edged Norcliffe by a neck for second. All three top finishers returned $2-10 prices as heavy betting on Forego forced down the mutuels.

However, all that betting was off-track. A wildcat strike of mutual clerks forced the abandonment of betting at Belmont and, although the first-place attendance count was 12,964, many people left when told there were no betting facilities. The track accepted only $914 in daily double bets before the mutual windows closed shortly after noon.

THREE-TIME Horse of the Year Forego, ridden by Willie Shoemaker, won the Nassau County Handicap Monday to move into second place on the all-time money-winning list for thoroughbred racing behind the immortal Kelso.

TEXAS' first baseman Mike Hargrove booted a throw from the outfield to allow the Cleveland Indians' John Lowenstein to get back to first base safely and avoid a double play. Texas won the game anyway 5-0.

Who booted it?

Red Sox take lead in AL East

BOSTON (UPI) — Carlton Fisk's bases-loaded single to deep center field with one out in the 10th inning Monday night scored Rick Burleson to give the Boston Red Sox a 5-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox in a nationally televised game.

Boston's fifth straight triumph, combined with the New York Yankees 8-3 loss to the Kansas City Royals, put the Red Sox in sole possession of first place in the American League East by a half-game.

Expos nip Astros 3-2

HOUSTON (UPI) — Relief pitcher Joe Kerrigan came on in the eighth inning and pitched out of a bases-loaded jam Monday night to preserve a 3-2 victory for the Montreal Expos over the Houston Astros.

Driessen HR drops Phils

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Dan Driessen greeted reliever Wayne Twitchell with a leadoff homer in the ninth inning Monday night to give the Cincinnati Reds a 5-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Royals drub Yankees 8-3

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Brett belted a two-run homer and Darrell Porter drove in three other runs Monday night to spark the Kansas City Royals to an 8-3 victory over the New York Yankees.

Hyde avoids crash, wins race

TWIN FALLS — Jim Hyde, Twin Falls, escaped a crash that eliminated half the field and captured the superstock main event at the Thunder Bluff Raceway Sunday.

Right at the start of what was supposed to be a 20-lap run around the 1/2-mile oval track, four of the eight cars entered in the main superstock event collided and were unable to continue.

After the race was restarted, Hyde opened enough of a lead over second place driver Alan Fairchild, Paul, that he was awarded the checkered flag after only 11 laps.

In an exciting race in which the lead changed hands several times, Dean Jones, Burley, won the J-stock main event. Jones and Roger Dinker also Burley, carried off a roaring battle for the lead until the 16th lap when Dinker spun out on one of the turns, allowing Jones to take the 20-lap race by about half a lap.

Boyd Harms, in only his second week of racing, took third in the event and Rich Burch, Paul, was fourth.

In the powder puff derby, Linda Jones, Burley, got through 10 laps the quickest, followed by Pam McClain.

Wendell, Christie Regge, Twin Falls, and Roberta Jones, Burley, in the middle of the race, Jan Jones, Twin Falls, suddenly found her car completely uncontrollable when her steering wheel came off in her hands. The car smashed into Roberta Jones' machine and then coasted to a stop in the center of the infield. No one was hurt in the incident.

In other action, Ron Bastron, Twin Falls, won the sprint car race, Jim Hyde, Twin Falls, Jim Kidd, Burley, and Alan Fairchild, Paul, took the top spots in the superstock trophy dash; and Chuck Gose, Twin Falls, Billie Joe Fairchild, Paul, the only woman in the race, and Bob Powers, Twin Falls, topped the J-stock trophy dash.

Gary Jones, Burley, won the J-stock slow heat, followed by Bill Mohr, Twin Falls, Boyd Harms, Wendell, Rick Burch, Paul, and George Driver, Twin Falls.

The J-stock fast heat went to Dean Jones, Burley, who was chased by Roger Dinker, Burley, Stan Coombs, Eden, and Kevin Andrews, Twin Falls.

TF woman second in Pocatello drags

POCATELLO — Magic Valley drivers showed well in the modified eliminator, superstock and ET brackets in the first night event of the season at Intermountain Raceway Sunday.

In the top eliminator categories, however, out-of-state racers dominated the action.

Dave Austin, Twin Falls, got as far as the semi-finals in the modified eliminator class, Larry Decker, Jerome, got to the semi-finals in the superstock, and Barbara Dey, Twin Falls, outraced 50 men in her 1964 Plymouth to finish second in the ET bracket with a time of 16.1 seconds and a top speed of 65 miles per hour.

Al Steinmetz, Pocatello, drove his Olds 442 to victory in the stock eliminator, and John Larsen, Paul, finished second, but all the other winners' trophies were taken home to out-of-state locations.

Gary Masterson, Hamilton, Mont., ran the quartermiles in 8.56 seconds to top Vernal Smith, Ogden, Utah, in the competition eliminator bracket. Earlier in the event Masterson ran the day's fastest quarter in a time of 8.26 seconds at over 170 m.p.h.

Former national record holder Bill Spens, Salt Lake City, Utah, took the modified eliminator class with a run of 10.26 seconds.

Carew not after free agent gold

By MILTON RICHMAN

UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rod Carew could become a millionaire just like that. No trouble at all.

The way he handles a bat, the way he makes the American League batting title year after year, all he'd have to do is netify the Minnesota Twins he wants to be a free agent when his contract is up and the other clubs would fall all over themselves offering him big money.

Reggie Jackson, tooling around in a fancy Rolls-Royce, told Carew he should've become a free agent and made millions like he did. Rod Carew isn't interested in that. Not that he has any grudge against money. It's simply that he's satisfied with the money the Twins are paying him.

Carew gets something like $170,000 a year from the Twins, which isn't anything like the $400,000 Joe Morgan is drawing from the Reds or the $333,000 Steve Garvey is making with the Dodgers, but he's not kicking at all, even though he is practically lapsing the field in a bid for his sixth American League batting crown.

"I thought about it all and looked at it from every possible aspect," he says, talking about his three-year contract with the Twins which has another year after this one to run.

"No one pressured me into signing or held a gun to my head. I feel I have to be a man of my word. Maybe I could've made a lot more money elsewhere, but I'm happy here and I'm satisfied. It's like a family, and I honestly enjoy being with the Twins."

Some of the ballplayers may think Rod Carew has rocks in his head, but I don't. He has what so many other players don't have. Peace of mind. He isn't looking around all the time to see what others make and it's not eating him inside knowing he isn't the highest paid player. That isn't his overall aim.

He'd much rather be acknowledged the best hitter in the game and whether he's aware of it or not, he probably has achieved that goal already.

Take a look at where he is right now. His .388 batting average is the best in both leagues. By far, in his own league, his closest pursuer, Bob Bailor of the Toronto Blue Jays, is trailing him by 44 points. Carew wound up the Twins' latest road trip with a homer, triple and a single Sunday in a 6-1 victory over the Yankees.

"I really want this one," he says, talking about winning his sixth batting title. "I'm gonna make them chase me this time. Let them catch me for a change. The one thing I want to do is win it in good fashion after all that mess last year."

The "mess" he refers to had nothing to do with him.

It has to do with a charge Kansas City's Hal McRae made against Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch following last season's final game against Minnesota.

McRae accused Mauch of keeping him from winning the AL batting title by instructing the Twins to pinch-hit for City's George Brett whenever they could on balls hit by him.

Brett finished first with .333. McRae was second with .332, and Carew, who had seven hits in his last 12 times up, was third with .331.

"What McRae said was a bunch of seaweed," Carew says. "Gene is too much of a class person ever to do anything like that. George deserved to win the title. He's a good hitter, he had a tremendous year and I think he's even gonna improve as a hitter."

Carew's lifetime batting average of .328 is the best in the American League, best in both leagues, in fact. His highest average ever over a full year with the Twins was .364 three years ago. If anyone around now is capable of ever hitting .400, it's Carew, but if you ask him about the possibility, he says, "I don't think about it. Under the right circumstances, someone can do it."

A second baseman for most of his 10 years with the Twins, Carew now is doing a good job defensively at first base for them.

"Gene (Mauch) is the only one who has ever given me credit for my defensive ability," says Carew appreciatively. "He gives me the confidence when he lets me know he feels I can do the job with my glove. No one has ever done that with me before. He doesn't pull me out of there or DH me if I'm ever in a hitting slump."

That's one Gene Mauch scratches his head over.

"When in hell," he asks, "was Rod Carew ever in a hitting slump? That's something I must've missed."

Connors, Evert favored at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — Jimmy Connors, who has not played a competitive match for five weeks, was made top seed Monday for the Wimbledon Championships, which start celebrating their centennial June 20.

Defending champion Bjorn Borg of Sweden, who has passed up most of this year's major tournaments to play team tennis, was seeded No. 2 and will meet Connors — if all goes according to the AllEngland Club's plan — in the men's final July 2.

Chris Evert, the other defending singles champion, was installed as the women's top seed to meet Martina Navratilova in the women's final which she has won twice in the past three years.

British bookmakers installed Connors as the 2-1 favorite and were even more convinced that Evert would retain her crown, quoting 4-5 odds on her achieving the feat.

"I haven't played competitively since the WCT finals in Dallas," said Connors, who will be bidding to add the Wimbledon title to his WCT triumph for the first time of the modern grand slam.

Borg and I guess it was really between us two."

There are no surprises in the men's seeds. Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, winner of the French Open, is No. 3 and Raulo Tommer, whose thunderbolt serving dismissed Connors in the quarter-finals here last year, is No. 4. Brian Gottfried, who has won 54 of his last 65 matches to top the current Grand Prix standings, is No. 5 and Ilie Nastase No. 6.

Nastase, though, wasn't interested in learning his seeding. "I am not interested unless I am No. 1 or 2," he said.

Raul Ramirez of Mexico was seeded seventh, followed by Americans Vilas Gernalitis and Dick Stockton, Adriano Panatta of Italy, Stan Smith of the U.S., Wojtek Fibak of Poland, Phil Dent of Australia, Mark Cox of Britain, Bob Lutz of the U.S., and Harold Solomon of the U.S.

Virginia Wade of Britain was installed the No. 3 seed among the women, and she was followed by compatriot Sue Barker, Billie Jean King and Rosie Casals of the U.S., Betty Stove of Holland, Australians Kerry Reid and Diane Fromholtz, Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia, Françoise Durr of France and Kathy May of the U.S.

Doubles play slated

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Tennis Association will hold a mixed doubles round robin tournament Saturday at Harmon Park beginning at 9 a.m.

The entrance fee will be $2 per person and registration must be submitted by Thursday at 5 p.m. in Cheryl Olsen, 877 Briarwood Drive, Twin Falls, 733-2228. Do not register for a partner because partners will be selected by the tournament organizers.

Fish laws stiffen

BOISE (UPI) — Game law violators who take salmon and steelhead without proper licensing could face jail terms under $150 bond, the Idaho Department of Fish and Game said today.

Effective July 1, the ball bond schedule will be revised for persons caught fishing without a license.

The department said a record of 1976 game law violations showed more persons fished without a license than in any other no-license category. Some 81 per cent of the no-license arrests were for fishing last year.

Currently under Idaho law the amount of bail for an alleged fish and game offense is $35 except for certain violations.

Anglers leave mess

BOISE (UPI) — Streams in the Challis and Sawtooth National Forests have been reported strewn with litter and unattended campfires, the Department of Fish and Game said today.

The department has asked salmon fishermen to be more conscientious while outdoors. It warned outdoorsmen to be more careful with tires and take beverage cans and salmon egg jars with them when they leave fishing and camping sites.

Ducks threatened

BOISE (UPI) — The major source of waterfowl migrating to Idaho from Canada "has been severely hit by dry conditions," Ducks Unlimited reported today.

Habitat conditions in nesting and brooding areas in Alberta, Canada, this spring may put a dent in Idaho's duck supply in November, the sportsmen's organization said.

Some permanent ponds are in fair to good condition and support good numbers of mallards, it added.

The group concluded, "Reduced production will occur in this area chiefly as a result of the lack of small, shallow basins upon which pintails, in particular, depend so heavily."

New coho record set

BOISE (UPI) — The state coho record slipped off the titleholder's hook only five weeks after he snagged a three-pound trophy.

Ron Moore, a coho fisherman from Boise, lost the distinction June 4 to Lake Cobb, Nampa.

Cobb's catch weighed four pounds, 10 ounces. It was 21 and three-quarters inches long and had a girth measurement of 13 and one-fourth inches.

Moore's April 26 catch was 20 and one-half inches long.

Clerks walk out

ELMONT, N.Y. (UPI) — Some 500 parimutuel clerks upset over the suspension of two co-workers staged a wildcat walkout at Belmont Race Track Monday, provoking an angry reaction from race fans unable to place bets.

Some 100 Nassau County policemen rushed to Belmont to help the track's Pinkerton security force restrain some 300 bettors who threatened to run out onto the track and interfere.

By the time things quieted down, three men were arrested, a window in an admissions booth was smashed, and many of the 14,000 racing fans were given rain checks or cash refunds. There were no injuries reported.

Officials said the disturbance, which broke out about 1:30 p.m., was all over within 90 minutes. All the races were run with the only Off Track Betting Corp. handling wagers.

New York Racing Association officials will meet with members of the union, the Independent Association of Mutual Employees, at 3:30 a.m. Tuesday in an effort, end the wildcat strike, authorities said.

The walkout was not related to the recently settled contract dispute, which prompted a 10-day strike by the clerks.

Evert Wimbledon betting favorite

LONDON (UPI) — Jimmy Connors was listed a 2-1 favorite by bookmakers Monday to win the men's singles and Chris Evert a 4-5 favorite to successfully defend her women's singles title at the Wimbledon tennis championships which start June 20.

Other odds for the men's singles were: Bjorn Borg, 8-2; Roscoe Tanner, 8-1; Ilie Nastase, 11-1; Brian Gottfried and Dick Stockton, 15-1; Guillermo Vilas, 16-1; and Stan Smith, 20-1.

Billie Jean King and Martina Navratilova were listed at 5-1 odds among the women.

Unhappy slugger

VERSATILE infielder-outfielder Lee Lacy is not happy with the role he has been playing with the Los Angeles Dodgers. Lacy, who got up only 83 times in the team's first 50 games this season, has hit a brilliant .340, higher than any of the Dodger regulars. Yet he is not a starter, but feels it would be a lot more discouraging if he were playing on a losing ball club in the same role. (UPI)

Salukis nip ASU 3-2

OMAHA (UPI) — Southern Illinois' second baseman Neil Flala batted in two runs to lead the Salukis to a 3-2 victory over Arizona State at the 31st College World Series at Rosenblatt Stadium.

Southern Illinois took a 2-1 lead in the third inning when Flala tripled in a run and later scored on single. He then increased the Salukis' advantage in the fifth with a one-run single.

Arizona State's Bob Horner cleared the 300-foot left field wall in the bottom of the fifth to pull the Sun Devils within one.

Southern Illinois, 40-10, was scheduled to meet the winner of the California State-Los Angeles and South Carolina game. Arizona State, 53-12, was scheduled to play Minnesota Tuesday.

Koosman snubs press

ATLANTA (UPI) — Jerry Koosman has lived in the shadow of Tom Seaver for a decade and when his teammate got all the attention on a night he felt should have been his, Koosman rebelled.

"I've already given out my interview," Koosman said when sports writers rushed over from a meeting with Seaver to ask him about his four-hit, 10-strikeout performance in the New York Mets' 7-1 Monday night win over the Atlanta Braves.

It was pointed out the newsmen felt obligated to get Seaver's reaction to a statement from the Mets regarding his pending trade with the Cincinnati Reds.

"You have your job to do, I've done mine," retorted the 33-year-old left-hander. "I talk with the one reporter who came over here when I was ready. Now, I have nothing more to say."

Koosman didn't appear to be angry and indicated that his teammates had pressured him into snubbing the news media for going to Seaver first.

"You saw it all," he said. "There's nothing to say anyway."

Koosman, now 5-6 with a 2.82 ERA and 77 strikeouts in 59 innings, had himself a pretty good night. In addition to his pitching performance, he singled in both the seventh and eighth innings, the second one driving in two runs to cap a four-run outburst.

Koosman, a 21-game winner last season when Seaver, a four-time 20-game winner, was only 14-11, didn't allow a hit until the fifth inning when the Braves got two of their four singles and their long, unearned, run. And seven of his 10 strikeouts came in the last five innings despite the muggy heat.

The Mets got three of their runs in the fourth inning off Phil Niekro (4-9) when they put together four singles, two stolen bases and two Braves errors. They had only two hits, both singles, in their four-inning eighth but were aided again by two Braves errors.

Koosman wasn't the only one not talking when the game was over. Braves Manager Dave Bristol, upset by the sloppy play of the team with the worst record in major league baseball (22-39), had his office door closed.

Eastwick blasts Reds' office

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Rivalry Eastwick, the National League's "Fireman of the Year" in 1976, says he wouldn't sign a contract with the Cincinnati Reds for "any offer in the world."

"They smile at me to my face and stick a knife in my back," said Eastwick, 28, who combined an 11-8 record with a 2.08 earned run average last season.

Eastwick, mentioned as part of a possible trade with the New York Mets for pitcher Tom Seaver, also said he believes Reds' manager Sparky Anderson won't give him the work he needs to be effective because he is playing without a contract.

"The fans must be stupid if they don't see what management's doing to me," he charged.

Reds' general manager Dick Wagner said he was "surprised" by Eastwick's remarks. "He's intelligent enough to know that you take the good with the bad. I don't comprehend what he's saying about being 'knifed.'"

The reliever was booed by some fans in the crowd of 43,000 at Riverfront Stadium Sunday, when he gave up three runs in the ninth inning of the first game of a doubleheader with the Montreal Expos. The Reds won both games, and Eastwick returned to the mound in the second game to pitch five scoreless innings.

Anderson also denied Eastwick's charges, saying, "Does anyone think I ain't gonna field my best team or use my best pitchers?"

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 15, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good time to go directly to those who are in a position to help you reach financial goals. Let them know what you have in mind and they carry through with their suggestions. You are able to gain advancement by applying yourself mentally, too.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Let your contacts know what they can do to help you more in your endeavors and get good results. Do the research work necessary for the information you need, but pay particular attention to details.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Getting a new plan in operation that will improve your monetary and practical structure is wise now. Consult with an expert if you have any doubts. Take no chances with one who talks too much.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Know what is in your mind from others and you can get it with less trouble than usual. A good time to either extend or accept social invitations.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) People in the business world who were cool to your ideas and desires are now willing to listen. Take advantage of it. Take time to be with loved ones more.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Let friends and loved ones know how you feel. Don't take them for granted. Avoid an unscrupulous associate who could cause you trouble.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Pleasing a bigwig could get you the support you need at this time. Avoid unnecessary expenditures of money.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Put those ideas to work that will give you a chance to improve conditions around you. Make new contacts who have the information you need.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get the support of one who means a great deal to you and increase mutual happiness. Keep promises you have made to others. Unexpected but welcome invitations will come.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do what you can to improve relations with co-workers. Be more willing to do what they want. A public affair arises that is favorable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Put that organizational ability you possess to work and get ahead faster in your routine work. Have talks with co-workers and gain their cooperation. Spend some time with loved ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use spare time for recreational endeavors. Cultivate friendships that could lead to more success. Take the lead with others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Find a better way of handling affairs at home so that all is more comfortable there. Entertain at home with good results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very articulate and will need a fine education in order to put this gift to work. Plan now for academic work required. The mind here roams the universe and the interest in everything is so pronounced that almost anything can be mastered.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

Now, the statisticians contend that a 61-year-old man can expect to live another 15 years. If he's 58, he can look to 18 more years. At 51, he can hope for 22 more years. At 46, he can count on 26 more years. And at 41, he should figure 30 more years. At least, at least.

In a teaspoonful of water are as many molecules as teapoonfuls of water in the Atlantic Ocean.

Experts can tell the age of a mountain sheep by the rings on its horns.

Meat-eating animals lap water, grass-eating animals sip it.

MAN VS. SHARK

An athletic man is almost twice as powerful in the water as a shark. Remarkable: If true, what? But it's true; all right. Staged up, he proved it. A 170-pound competitive swimmer, rigged up in a harness with fishing line attached thereto. The tightened drag on the reel stopped the man in the water as he tried to gain distance with an ordinary crawl. But when he switched to a strong breast stroke, the testers on the boat couldn't hold him. Using the same gear, those testers had landed any number of sharks.

Men of science report that geese in flight increase their range as much as 70 per cent by flying in V formations. Updrafts off their wings are what do it. Each trailing bird gets a little help from the bird in front. And the overworked point birds take turns.

Q. "How can you tell whether an egg is fresh without breaking its shell?"

A. Put it into a pan of cool salted water. If it sinks, it's fresh. If it floats, it's stale. If it's something less than fresh, it rises, it's stale, too stale.

Q. "What was the biggest metal coin ever?"

A. The Swedish 10-daler piece, issued in 1844. It weighed 38.5 pounds, a rectangular copper slab 12 by 24 inches.

Q. "What was the only word ever coined by that dictionary developer named Noah Webster?"

A. Demoralize.

That the eagle has good eyesight is widely known. But just how good is less well documented. Observers recently spotted such a bird begin one long dive from an altitude of more than three miles; never wavering on its downward course, to scoop up a fish.

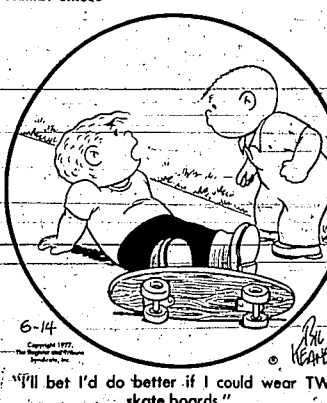

If you don't buy about a ton of food a year for every group in the family, you're just not keeping up with the national average.

"The Datsun Dealers here in Twin treated me just fine. They gave me service when I needed it and had parts available. Although I haven't owned any parts."

"I'm pleased with the performance of my Datsun personally and we've had good luck with the one in the store too."

Vietnam refugees without country

C.N.Y. Times News Service
SINGAPORE — In one of Singapore's least desirable corners, in a fishing harbor where the stench is overpowering, three boats no longer go out to fish. Instead, their open decks serve as home for 34 Vietnamese who fled their country and have found no other country to give them even temporary shelter.

Certainly not Singapore. The three boats tied up at Pongol Point are not allowed to go fishing because their owners are being penalized for having picked up the refugees. Singapore does not admit refugees, even in transit, unless a government gives a firm guarantee beforehand that it will admit them and the owner of the boat that brings them, and posts a bond equivalent to more than $4,000 to assure their support until they leave.

Since there is no chance that the fishermen can post such bonds, the government has simply made it necessary for the Vietnamese to live on the boats that brought them in, which deprives the fishermen of their livelihood.

In this season of good weather, when the flow of "boat people" — Vietnamese who flee in small craft in the hope of being picked up at sea or making it to friendly shores — is greatest, informed sources report that hardly a day goes by without such boats being towed out to sea again and cut loose in international waters to try their luck elsewhere. Last week a boat that had brought 94 Vietnamese here was towed in the direction of Indonesia with 45 still aboard. A family of nine was granted permission to emigrate to France and stayed behind.

Among the 85 was 37-year-old Mrs. Nguyen Thi Nam, who is paralyzed on one side and was hemorrhaging on arrival. She was taken to a hospital but returned on a stretcher just before the boat was towed out of port, without medical aid. Also aboard were two women in their seventh month of pregnancy and many children.

A 20-year-old fisherman from Vung Tau, near Saigon, who fled with two companions, reported how the three of them were interrogated for three days with many beatings after they scuttled their boat on arrival here last December to prevent being sent back to sea. All three were jailed; one remained in prison, one was released a few weeks ago to emigrate to France and the 20-year-old was freed on June 4 in the expectation that he will be allowed to join his mother and four brothers in Minnesota.

The 34 refugees on the three immobilized fishing craft are under police guard and not allowed on land even to escape briefly from the ever-present stench. The Roman Catholics among them look occasionally toward the church, three minutes walk away and wish they could go to mass. So neglected and ignored are the refugees that the priest was surprised to hear of their presence.

Significantly, they were rescued by Vietnamese fishermen of Chinese origin who were among a group of 109 such refugees to be granted asylum here.

Ex-convicts to get workers benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As of today, prisoners will be eligible for unemployment compensation and public works jobs as soon as they are released from jail.

New regulations issued by the Labor Department are aimed at making ex-convicts quickly eligible for public works jobs in hopes of cutting down on the number of men and women who return to crime when freed from prison, officials said.

The federal government said last week $4 billion for public works and other jobs programs will soon be released through state and local governments.

Newly paroled convicts originally were excluded by the regulations governing the public works program, that were announced May 13, but a Labor Department spokesman said the rules now have been revised to include parolees, and memos notifying federal employment field offices of the change were sent out Thursday.

Under the new rules, parolees are eligible immediately on release from prison.

FATHER'S DAY CONTEST... FOR KIDS!

We asked the children of Magic Valley to tell us how their Dads were conserving energy during this year of concern with water shortages. They responded with some interesting ideas, some humorous. We'd like to thank all of the kids who took the time to write to us, and wish they could all have won. Our thanks also to an obviously great bunch of Dads for their concern with the energy shortage. HAVE A HAPPY FATHER'S DAY!

A special "Thanks" to Dave Nelson, of Sav-Mor Drug in Twin Falls, and Bruce Weaver of Chicken Time for their help with the prizes!

My Dad is conserving energy by fixing dripping pipes and by turning off lights at night and by not watching TV very much. He makes sure the lights are off and the TV is off. He shares with the water off.

How My Dad is conserving Energy

My Dad is conserving energy by building a greenhouse that runs on heat from the sun only. He is going to fill old milk containers with dyed water to hold the heat from the sun. He is also turning off lights when they are not in use. He saves energy by watching less TV.

1. My Dad put up two clothes lines so my mom wouldn't have to use our dryer except on rainy days.
 2. My Dad also lowered the seats on our toilet so it wouldn't use so much water.
 3. He put small light bulbs in the closets.
 4. My Dad put foil in our self-cleaning oven so we wouldn't have to use energy to clean it.
 5. We use our car more so we don't have to use up the gas in our car and pick up. Sometimes he even rides it to work.

Dear Contest,
I read your article about about your contest for kids.
And then I read on
And it said four fathers day.
And I knew I wouldn't win.
But I said what the heck,
So I'll tell you what my dad does to save energy.
When I play out in the shade I use the light.
Well I forget and leave it on.
And that night my dad came home
He saw the light that night and made me go out and turn it off.
Well I'll go on to 10 turns of lights.
And when he is in the shower he gets soaped and gets soaped up.
But before that he turns off the water.

Dear Editor,
My Dad is moving to town,
so he can walk to work and save energy.

Sincerely Yours

"How My Dad Is Conserving Energy"

My Dad is conserving energy by cutting down on his eating which saves energy in growing, processing, and transporting food. If more people did this there would be more food for the poor people in our country, and other countries. He is conserving energy by walking to many places instead of using his gas. He drives his automobile. He turned the thermostat down in the winter to 65 degrees, and in the summer completely off. He only irrigates (waters) his lawn once a week and sometimes skips a week.
So you can see "Everyone Should Conserve Energy!"

How My Dad is Conserving Energy.

My Dad makes sure the lights are off when nobody is in that room. We don't use the air conditioner this year, so he opens the window of doors to open the screen door windows. Even when we don't use the air conditioner he closes the door windows. He plants the wheat in the fields instead of the beans because wheat uses less water. That is how my Dad is conserving energy.

How My Dad Is Conserving Energy

My stepdad Henri Le Moine conserves energy. For instance when we do the dishes he tells us how we can save water and soap. He does it and it works. In our family, it's good rule that we turn up the heat just that a little usually after the post. And if it is on, next to the door, we don't open it. At the time our dad was old, get to sit around the fireplace. My dad also turned off our beautiful TV set. Our family I see. Love and play games. Much!! Him very

My Dad is conserving energy by not watching as much T.V. as he usually does. Also not using too many lights at once. I think he is doing a super job at it. My dad is a super guy at conserving energy!

How My Daddy is Conserving Energy

My Daddy is conserving energy by telling me to turn the lights off during the daytime & closing the doors & windows & curtains, to keep the house cool inside. That way we don't have to use the air conditioner. When it is cold outside my Dad will build us a fire so that we can keep warm without using the heaters. I think My Dad is smart when it comes to conserving energy.
